"Many a green isle needs must be
In the deep, wide sea of misery,
Or the mariner, worn and wan,
Never thus could voyage on."

Speaking of the prisoner worn and wan, he still looks for a green isle as his trial goes into extra innings.

What's delaying Senator Copeland in offering an amendment broadening the powers of Miss Sophie Irene Loeb?

The New York social workers put it all over the local boob and get their mothers' pensions bill reported, their specialty being first to work the House and then the Senate. How extravagant is Congress to waste money paying salaries to these superintendents of carpet-baggers who are willing to drop all their work—if any—and come down here and run our government for us for nothing!

The gentleman who complains to the editor about the navy's claim to the credit for the invention of a catapult for launching airplanes, in view of his own conception of the device as far back as 1914, forgets, perhaps, that Prof. Langley, in 1903 at Westwater, used this contraption for launching the original aeroplane—much to his sorrow.

But just where is the economy in a $5 high school graduation dress that so completely obscures the high visibility of garters that it'll never be possible to wear it again?

Lieut. Mina Van Winkle, having been turned down by the District Commissioners, is a poor reformer if she can not now launch a successful campaign in Congress to have the powers of the women's police bureau definitely established by constitutional amendment.

Mr. Langley, of Kentucky, respectfully requests that his wife be allowed to keep his Congressional chair warm for him while he is detained at Atlanta on unavoidable business.

Bright young New York woman of great originality is going to Europe to negotiate a $50,000,000 merger which, for the first time in our history, is not a matter of matrimony.

"To balance fortune by a just expense,
Join with economy, magnificence."

The prudent this morning will clip out and paste in their hats Mr. Charles M. Schwab's sage reminder to magnificent America that the day to hitch on economy is at hand.

Lady Cynthia Moseley has arrived in the United States and is preaching socialism at a great rate, but have Countess Karolyi and Secretary Kellogg heard about this?

The real Democratic leaders of the country tell the strutting actors on the Senatorial boards to quit monkeying with that tax-bill buzzsaw.

The theory that the public has won the anthracite strike unhappily is not based upon close examination of this winter's bills for soft coal and substitutes.

More than 90 miners give their lives for their jobs in an Oklahoma coal pit. Not all of them are on strike, and the tragedy of men engaged in a highly hazardous occupation tempers our resentments.

Bill to abolish capital punishment in the District is held up in order that Senator King, of Utah, may make a speech on it. Oh, death, where is thy sting?

"The time has come," the Walrus said,
To talk of many things,
Of shoes—and ships—and sealing-wax—

Of cabbages—and kings."

Chicago reports the arrival of fourteen carloads of cabbages at New York from Holland, which must have come, as the colored soldier in the A. E. F. who had been seafish all the way over, said he was going home—"by land, by way of Cuba." Maybe Holland hasn't any king, or ships, and had to use the B. & O., but this outrage on the American farmer will give Frank Lowden a chance to "talk of many things—not that he needs another one."

Couple of college boys doll themselves up as Rappers and see Edna Wallace Hopper do a Godiva act as a matinee for women only, but it is not stated by the voracious reporter that Peeping Tom's eyes were shriveled into darkness in his head."

SELFISH BANKERS BACK WORLD COURT, SHIPSTEAD AVERS

Protection of Loans to Nations Their Aim, He Tells Senate.

PROTOCOL DEFENDED BY THREE SENATORS

New Reservation by Overman; G. O. P. Indiana Chairmen Opposed to Tribunal.

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN.
The world court regained the center of the Senate stage yesterday. With the Nye case disposed of, the resolution of adherence became once more the order of business. It will remain in that position until next week, when it will be replaced with the tax reduction bill. Whether after that it ever again will be the unfinished business is a matter of doubt.

The feature of the day's session was an explanation address by Senator Henrik Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), of Minnesota, who assailed the court as the creation of international financiers who desire to maintain the value of their securities. In plain language he dissected the pretensions of the backers of the tribunal and declared that it is impossible to deny that it is a system which itself "rests upon a political alliance designed to absorb into one unified whole much of the essence of the governments which are parties to that alliance."

Sensor William McKinley (Republican), Illinois, denied that the Republican leaders would be any party to a plan which would involve the United States in the League of Nations and international complications.

Defended by Walsh.
Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Democrat), Montana, said the court could never have jurisdiction over tariff and immigration questions of the United States, although it would be possible that treaties involving such problems might be brought before the court but only with the consent of the United States.

Incidentally a report was circulated that a poll of Republican committeemen in Indiana had revealed 80 per cent against the court. Neither of the Indiana senators had any knowledge of the authenticity of the report but nevertheless it was given wide circulation by court foes.

Sensor McLean, of Connecticut, spoke in favor of the world court resolution, insisting that the step from "caution to cowardice is no longer than that from the sublime to the ridiculous." He declared the American eagle is a "pretty good bird, but that it ought not to resemble either a Shanghai rooster or an ostrich." The Connecticut senator argued it is impossible to keep politics out of foreign relations, and he could see no good reason why this country should not join with other nations to maintain peace.

Shipstead Combs Root.
The most notable utterance of the day's proceedings, however, was the prepared address of Senator Shipstead.

He sharply took issue with the position of former Senator Elihu Root on the independence of the court itself, and declared that the latter's position at all times has been that "democracies must be controlled." Senator Shipstead insisted that international bankers are behind all of the court agitation in this country, and that their interest is essentially selfish.

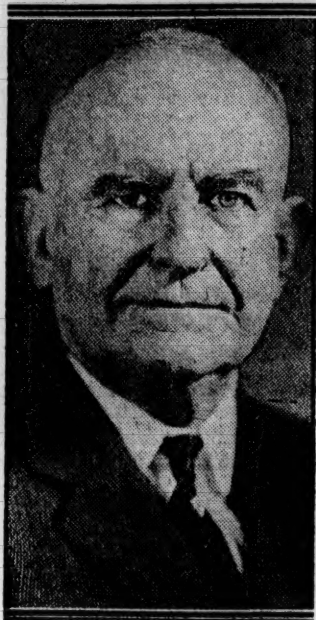

The argument of Senator Shipstead opened up new grounds to the opponents of the court plan. In the very nature of things, he contended, the world court would have a jurisdiction "overlapping that of our Federal Supreme Court."

"It is clearly going to be a consequence of adherence to the protocol on which this court rests, if we consent to it," he continued, "that within a short time we adhere to the treaty of Versailles on which the protocol itself rests. Ratification of the treaty of Versailles would have been a detestable act, but it would not have been so instantly suggestive of ignominious furtiveness as is the present scheme to take the United States into an international alliance, foot by foot, inch by inch, up the back way, marked 'entrance for mandates and money lenders.'"

"Mr. President, we in this country are not going to be taken in by the present scheme to take the United States into an international alliance, foot by foot, inch by inch, up the back way, marked 'entrance for mandates and money lenders.'"

SOUTHEAST RUM CHARGE ORDERED INVESTIGATED

Andrews Assigns Chief to Look Into Lincoln Park Citizens' Complaint.

BUSINESS MEN INDIGNANT

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews, following charges made by members of the Lincoln Park Citizens' association that liquor flows freely in their section of the city, yesterday assigned Gerald P. Murphy, chief of the local prohibition enforcement unit, to investigate conditions Southeast Washington.

Conditions in southeast Washington are no worse than those found in the northeast, Mr. Murphy declared last night, but the charges made by the citizens' association that five complaints had been made against "speakeasies" without police action being taken were never brought to my attention.

The Southeast Business Men's association, meeting last night at the W. A. Simpson dairy plant, 530 Seventh street southeast, passed a resolution commending the police of the Fifth precinct in their record made against bootlegging and ordered letters of confidence sent to Commissioner Penning, Chief of Police Hesse and to Capt. William Sanford, of the Fifth precinct.

George J. Cross, in introducing the resolution, declared that the action of the Lincoln Park Citizens' association reflected on the cleanliness of the southeast and that the association go on record as resenting this action.

James B. Flynn said the southeast section was one of the cleanest and most orderly in Washington, and that in the last year he had not seen three intoxicated persons in the entire section. The Fifth precinct police are the most efficient in the city, Mr. Flynn added.

LIEBENSUND SOCIETY WILL BE DISBANDED

Membership of One of Oldest Sick-Benefit Groups Votes Sums to Charity.

Because its membership has decreased and its funds have increased too much, St. Joseph's Liebensund Society of Washington, one of the oldest sick benefit associations in the District, has voted to disband and divide among the 69 members the $12,300 remaining in the treasury. The society was founded October 13, 1846.

The vote to disband was announced yesterday by William Neuland, 922 East Capitol street, president of the society, who opposed the vote of dissolution. St. Ann's Infant asylum, St. Joseph's Male Orphan asylum, St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum for Girls, and the German Orphan asylum each were voted $100 out of the treasury. Another $100 each was voted to St. Mary's Catholic church and the monastery for masses for the living and dead members of the society, and the janitor, ill at home, also was given $100.

Officers of the society, in addition to Mr. Neuland, are Henry Neu, Anton Ostmann, John B. Geier, Joseph Zegowitz, Frank Auth and L. Hammer.

LIEUT. VAN WINKLE'S BILL IS DENOUNCED BY COMMISSIONERS

District Heads Say Plan for Greater Power Is Unwarranted.

PRESENT MACHINERY IS HELD SUFFICIENT

Congress Asked to Withhold Legislation; Bureau Head Defends Measure.

Lieut. Mina Van Winkle's proposed bill to increase the powers of the woman's bureau of the police department and raise the grade of the position she now holds to that of assistant superintendent of police, was criticized as unnecessary and unwarranted yesterday by the District commissioners in a report to Congress.

"The commissioners have given up the best argument for the bill," said Mrs. Van Winkle last night when asked for comment regarding the commissioners' report on the measure.

"It is not my bill," she continued. "It is the women's bill and a women's movement bill, and it should be passed for the good of my women and the good of the community. It is for their interest and not mine, but I will stay with it until it wins."

Commissioner Frederick A. Penning, in charge of the police department, wrote the report, following recommendations by Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police. The report said, in part: "No reason is apparent why any particular branch of the police department should be covered by express legislative sanction. It may safely be assumed that all branches and bureau of the department are conducted because of necessities incident to the general scope of police duties."

If no such necessity should exist, manifestly it would be unfair to the District government, to the police department and to the taxpayers to continue such an unnecessary bureau because it had been organized under express legislative enactment.

Elasticity Is Sought.

"The proposed bill undertakes to specify the number and grade of the officers and privates attached to the woman's bureau. This, in the opinion of the commissioners, is unwise and should be left to the commissioners, who, acting in such a matter, will of necessity be guided by such recommendations as may be made from time to time by the major and superintendent of police."

"At present the officer in charge of the bureau has the rank of lieutenant. The nature and extent of the work performed by the woman's bureau would not warrant, in the opinion of the commissioners, that it be placed in charge of an officer of the rank of assistant superintendent, as contemplated in the bill."

"Section 2 of the bill specifies the qualifications for director of the bureau. In the opinion of the commissioners such qualifications need not be set out in an act of Congress, and the commissioners, acting with the major and superintendent of police, may reasonably be trusted in making such future appointments as may be necessary. It may be added that the present satisfactory director was selected in the latter manner and not because she was measured by any hard and fast rule of legislative enactment."

"As to all other provisions of the proposed bill, the commissioners are of the opinion that the woman's bureau, as at present constituted, and as at present functioning, and the laws governing the Metropolitan police force and the police manual, are sufficient and that further legislation along any of the lines proposed is unnecessary."

Plane From Here Hits Mountain in Storm

An airway carrier airplane, piloted by Lieut. Ralph H. Lawter, of Langley field, Pa., carrying Lieut. Hully, of the Third Infantry, as a passenger, Monday afternoon crashed into the side of a mountain at Ursina, Pa., during a snowstorm, according to word received here last night by officers at Bolling field.

The plane was en route from Bolling field to Langley field when Lieut. Lawter lost his way in the snowstorm and crashed into the mountain side. The plane was wrecked and Lieut. Lawter slightly injured. His passenger was uninjured except for a shaking up. The men are expected to return to Bolling field today.

Woman, 30, in Charge Of $50,000,000 Merger

New York, Jan. 13 (By A. P.). More than ten years ago when Miss Pearl Kramer had finished her public school education, her mind was definitely set upon a career in business rather than the pursuit of her scholastic education. Today she reached a goal beyond her girlhood dreams when she was elected as a director in the banking firm of Jesse Winburn & Co., Inc., of Wall street.

One of her first assignments will be a trip to Europe to negotiate the preliminary plans for a $50,000,000 amalgamation of firms in England, France and the United States, the details of which were not made public. She expects to sail in a few days. Miss Kramer, who is about 30 years old, is one of the youngest women to rise to such an important post in the financial district. She has been associated with Mr. Winburn about ten years as confidential and business secretary.

LANGLEY, TO SAVE HOME, ASKS WIFE'S ELECTION

On Way to Prison He Refers to 'Martyrdom' After Years in House.

CRUCIFIXION IS ALLEGED

Pikeville, Ky., Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—John W. Langley has left his home here practically penniless, he says, after a public career of more than 43 years, the last 18 as representative in Congress. He did not announce his destination, when he, accompanied by his wife, left here yesterday, but said he was waiting for the court order committing him to the Atlanta Federal penitentiary for two years, the sentence passed upon him after conviction for conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

In a statement, in which he referred to his sentence as the final chapter of his "martyrdom," Mr. Langley, "to save our home," asked his constituents to elect Mrs. Langley to the seat in Congress which he vacated Monday after the Supreme Court had refused to consider his case.

Referring to a mortgage on his home, Langley said he thought "our party (Republican) and the people owe that much to us" to elect Mrs. Langley. Commenting on the final outcome of his trial, he said that the higher courts can not go into local influences that affect a jury trial and to the increased majority by which he was elected in his last race. This race was made after he had been convicted and sentenced. "In the providence of God, I shall see you all again," he concluded, "and I know that in His own good time the people will know the truth of this persecution and what was back of my crucifixion at Covington. I put my trust in Him and shall wait patiently."

Steamer Refloated After 8 Days on Bar

The District of Columbia, Norfolk & Washington steamboat that ran aground on a sand bar within a few feet of the steel and concrete pier at the marine base at Quantico, Va., eight days ago in a heavy fog, was refloated yesterday afternoon at high tide at 6:30 c'clock.

Tugs had attempted to pull the steamer off the bar continuously since it ran aground in less than 10 feet of water, but the vessel was only moved by inches. Yesterday a dredge was employed and the vessel pulled off the bar. No serious damage was done, according to D. J. Callahan, general manager of the steamboat company.

Mrs. Baur in Race Opposing Britten

Special to The Washington Post.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Mrs. Bertha Baur, long known as one of the most successful business women of the country, announced today her candidacy for the seat in Congress now held by Fred A. Britten. Republican organizations of her district have endorsed her candidacy.

Mrs. Baur will run as a "wet." In bringing the prohibition issue into her campaign, Mrs. Baur is said to be ready to direct a vigorous attack on Representative Britten because of his failure to vote on the Volstead act. Mr. Britten was not present when the vote was taken.

WILBUR AND BOARD DIFFER ON AIRCRAFT PROGRAM FOR NAVY

$6,000,000 for Building Huge Dirigible Asked by Secretary.

MINOR IMPORTANCE, ADVISERS DECLARE

Personnel Cuts Recommended in Appropriations Bill Reported to House.

Coincident with the appearance of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur before the House naval affairs committee yesterday in favor of an appropriation of $6,000,000 for the construction of a new airship to replace the wrecked Shenandoah, the Navy's general board submitted a report in which it described airships as being of only "minor military importance."

At the same time it was reported that a serious row was brewing between Secretary Wilbur and his chief aeronautical officer, Rear Admiral William A. Moffett. The navy head wants a new dirigible only on the condition that the cost will not affect the building program for battleships and airplanes. Admiral Moffett was represented as wanting a new airship regardless of the sacrifice it will entail.

The navy general board, which has been making an exhaustive study with a view to determining what the navy's policy shall be toward airships, declared in its report to Secretary Wilbur that it is "strongly opposed to the sacrifice of any part of a building program for combatant ships and airplanes" to obtain the whole or any part of the program submitted by Admiral Moffett's bureau of aeronautics.

"Sacrifice Called 'Mistake.'"
It would be a serious mistake, the report said, to sacrifice that which has been proved valuable for that which is as yet only experimental.

"It has not been determined in war that rigid lighter-than-aircraft have other than minor military importance," said the board's report. "The operations of the Shenandoah with the scouting fleet, carried out under very favorable weather conditions, if considered alone, do not justify their existence as military units of the fleet."

The general board follows up these statements with the statement that another airship should be constructed, but not at the sacrifice of combatant ships. A limited personnel should be developed for the manning of airships, it says, and experimentation should be continued.

Secretary Wilbur's recommendation that $6,000,000 be appropriated for the construction of a successor to the Shenandoah was made when he appeared before the naval committee to give his views on the bill of Chairman Butler. This bill provides $5,000,000 for the construction of an airship.

Curtailments Recommended.

In reporting out the annual Navy Department supply bill, the House appropriations committee recommended abandonment of the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., reduction of the enlisted personnel from $6,000 to $2,000 men, and the paring down by $1,782,000 of the amount allotted for the operation and maintenance of the fleet.

Notwithstanding the various economies recommended by the committee, the appropriation urged—$319,419,000—is an increase of $16,556,000 over the amount in the supply bill last year. The increase is designed chiefly to care for ship construction previously authorized.

Secretary Wilbur, in his appearance before the committee, made it clear that he was opposed to the abandonment of the Lakehurst station and to the decommissioning of any battle ships. The committee estimated that abandonment of the station would save $717,000 annually. The station, the committee said, could be reopened four years hence, after the new airship is completed.

93 KILLED BY BLAST IN MINE, IS BELIEF; BODIES OF 34 FOUND

101 Trapped, but 8 Are Saved in Oklahoma; Fire Is Raging.

RELATIVES FRANTIC; TROOPS CALLED OUT

Workings Wrecked by Force of Explosion; Digging to Require Days.

Wilburton, Okla., Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—The bodies of 31 men killed in an explosion in the Degan-McConnell coal mine, near here, today were found in the workings late tonight. Preparations were being made to bring them to the surface. Meanwhile rescue workers sought to learn of the remainder of the 93 men trapped in the mine are alive. It is believed all perished.

The bodies of three miners had been removed from the workings early tonight. They were badly burned.

W. H. Powers, superintendent of the mine, tonight said he believed all of the 93 men had been killed. Fire, which broke out in the workings late today, made rescue work hazardous, while damp and falling rocks also contributed to the difficulties.

One hundred and one men, 25 white and 76 negroes, were in the mine when the explosion occurred this morning. Eight negroes had come out alive late today.

Survivors Walk Over Bodies.
Negroes who were rescued told of walking over bodies of dead miners as they progressed from a small pocket under the main shaft to the manway from which they emerged. John Evans, white pit boss, a mining engineer, and two of his assistants were in the mine and have not been accounted for.

All other mines in the Wilburton field closed down soon after the explosion and their crews were rushed to the scene to aid in the rescue work. The wrecked mine was operated on a nonunion basis, as are most of the properties in this area.

Trained rescue crews from Krebs, McAlester, Hartshorne and Halleyville tendered their assistance. The Wilburton chapter of the American Red Cross served coffee and doughnuts from a hastily erected canteen.

Sightseers Flock to Scene.
Hysterical relatives of the entombed men congregated about the entrance of the mine and remained there throughout the day. Sightseers flowed into Wilburton from many surrounding cities and roads leading to the mine were lined with motor cars for miles.

Austin Parks, sheriff of Latimer county, immediately assumed the task of enforcing order. The shaft of the mine was roped off by his deputies and none but persons engaged in rescue work was allowed to approach it.

Doctors and nurses with medical equipment were summoned from all nearby towns and a special train was brought here from McAlester as soon as they were brought out. A specially equipped rescue car of the United States bureau of mines tonight was being rushed here from Asbury, Mo.

Work to Require Days.
Seventy-five men compose the rescue crews, but only four may work at a time because of the narrow shaft.

The work of clearing the tunnel to the remaining men will require between three and four days, it is believed. The digging will continue until all of the bodies are recovered.

Rescuers have reached a level of 193 feet, but the work from now on will be more difficult and slower, it is said. A steel basket, operated by a hoisting engine, has been put in operation to lift debris to the surface.

After Julius Graham, one of the rescued negroes, had been taken from the shaft, he rushed back and saved his stepbrother, Roy Gray. A. B. Thomas, 36 years old, a mining engineer, for more than a year a member of the faculty of the State school of mines here, was among those in the shaft at the time of the explosion. He had contracted with the company to survey three mines. This was his first day in the mine.

It was said that there would be

EIGHT INJURED, FOUR PROBABLY FATAL, IN STREET MISHAPS

Mrs. Mary Roberts, 60, Hit by Street Car in Crossing Downtown Street.

AUTO STRIKES WOMAN ON HER WAY TO WORK

Isaac W. Woods, Hurt on East Capitol Street and Boy May Have Skull Fractures.

Eight persons were injured, four probably fatally, in traffic accidents yesterday.

Frank Osborne, 11 years old, 607 Thirty-fourth street southeast, suffered a possible fracture of the skull, besides injuries to the head and body. His condition is serious. Print Shonette, 14 years old, 1909 Naylor road southeast, suffered lacerations over the right eye and bruises on the chest. Two stitches were taken in the wound over his eye.

Mrs. Mary Roberts, 60 years old, of 238 Thirteenth street southwest, was struck and knocked down by a Washington Railway & Electric Co. street car yesterday morning while crossing at Fourteenth and F streets northwest.

She was taken to Emergency hospital in a passing automobile, suffering possible fracture of the skull and severe lacerations of the face and body. Her condition is serious. Mrs. Catherine Dazell, 35 years old, of 1426 Girard street northwest, was struck and knocked down by an automobile driven by George W. Brown, of Baltimore, Md., at Fourteenth and B streets southwest yesterday morning while on her way to work.

Woman's Condition Serious. Brown took her to Emergency hospital where she was found to be suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, possible internal injuries and lacerations about the body. Her condition is serious.

Isaac W. Woods, 47 years old, of 1536 East Capitol street, was struck and knocked down early yesterday while crossing the street at Thirteenth and East Capitol streets by an automobile driven by Barrett B. Duke, 36 years old, of 1610 Irving street northeast.

Woods was taken to Casualty hospital and treated for a possible fracture of the skull at the base of the brain. Woods is still unconscious and it is feared his injuries may prove fatal.

Edward Duffel, 53 years old, of 1308 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, was struck and knocked down by an automobile driven by Arthur Sutherland, 31 years old, of Clarendon, Va., early yesterday morning on the Ellipse.

Duffel was taken to Emergency hospital by Sutherland and treated for lacerations of the scalp and abrasions to the face. He later went home.

Charles R. Simpson, 35 years old, of 3208 N street northwest, driver of a milk truck, was cut severely by flying glass yesterday morning when a street car of the Capital Traction Co. collided with the truck as Simpson backed it out of an alley at Connecticut avenue and Northampton street northwest.

Thrown Against Windshield. The force of the collision threw Simpson into the windshield of the truck. He was taken into a nearby drug store and given first-aid treatment. He later went home. His condition is not serious.

The automobile of Dr. Harry R. Kenner, of 1816 New Hampshire avenue northwest, yesterday struck and knocked down Clara Bush, 18 years old, of 315 K street northeast, and cut on the head and legs. Her condition is not serious.

A coroner's jury yesterday decided that Frank Elliott, 79 years old, of Ballston, Va., met his death as the result of carelessness on his own part, when he was struck by an automobile truck Christmas eve, and termed the tragedy an accident.

He was run down by a street car and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. He died in Georgetown university hospital Tuesday. The verdict exonerated Alexander F. Jackson, colored, 43 years old, of Radio, Va., driver of the coal truck.

Marketing Trophy To Be Given Tonight. The Saprio trophy, awarded annually for the best advertising literature, booklet or circular written on the subject of cooperative marketing will be presented at the Cooperative Press banquet at the Lee House tonight.

The name of the winner will not be made known until tonight. The prize will be a gold watch and it is given by Aaron Saprio, legislative adviser for the cooperative marketing associations, now holding a conference here. Robert Tinsman, president of the Federal Advertising Agency of New York, will make the presentation.

Home Reported Robbed. Jimmying his way through a rear window into the home of Albert Hird, 519 L street northeast, last night, a thief ransacked the rooms and stole three rings, one wedding ring, and some valuable linens, the total value of which was estimated at $100, police of the Ninth precinct were advised.

Bathing Beach Bill Reported. Representative Zihlman's bill authorizing construction of two artificial bathing beaches here at a cost not to exceed $345,000 was favorably reported by the House District committee yesterday. The effort to broaden the project to three beaches was not made in committee.

Editors' Convention Opens Here Tomorrow

Newspaper problems in all its various phases, including crime news, libel and wire service difficulties, will be discussed by nationally prominent editors at the annual convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, which opens in the Willard hotel tomorrow morning.

The two-day conference will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning in the small ballroom of the hotel, the address of the president, Casper S. Yost, editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Willmott Harsant Lewis, Washington correspondent of the London Times, and William Hard, political writer, will address the conference tomorrow afternoon.

NATIONAL GUARD OFFERS BARTER FOR DRILL SITE

Would Give Up Army Office Use, Says Commander.

ECONOMY PLEA IS MADE

Despite the fact that a bill providing for construction of a new national guard armory here was introduced in the Senate Tuesday, the District of Columbia militia is willing to abandon that legislation and every other attempt to obtain a new armory here if it is allowed to use a part of the Pension Office building for that purpose.

This became known yesterday when it was learned that Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, commanding officer of the District National Guard, has written a letter to every member of the public buildings commission offering to the government such a proposal.

For years the local militia has laid plans for legislation that would bring about the building of a new armory here. Several times measures have been introduced in Congress, Tuesday's bill being the latest effort in that direction. Now, faced with the necessity of vacating the present armory at 472 L street northwest, by June 30, the guard will sacrifice those hopes in trade.

Gen. Stephan has pointed out to members of the commission that the ground is now required to pay rent for its armory and that if it is allowed to occupy a portion of the pension office the historic rotunda of which it would use for drilling, the money thus spent could be diverted to the Treasury of the United States.

ENGINEERS ARE URGED FOR PUBLIC OFFICES

Delegates to Council Meeting Today Entertained by Local Groups.

There is room for engineers in the American Engineering Council, according to Dean Cooley, University of Michigan, in a talk at the engineers' dinner at the Cosmos club last night. There is only one engineer represented in national official circles, he said. This condition exists in no other country in the world, he added. Thirty of the national officials of Italy are engineers, according to Farley Osgood, of Newark, another speaker.

Dr. Harold G. Moulton, director, Institute of Economics, discussed the French debt problem. He said that France was sick from borrowing and "could not get well by taking more of the stuff that made her sick."

The dinner was given by the local sections of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers as a testimonial to visiting representatives on the American Engineering Council meeting here today. A. F. E. Horn and Arthur Adelman were the chairmen. W. L. Abbott, Chicago, president of the American Engineering council; Fred R. Low, New York, writer on engineering subjects; Charles F. Scott, Yale university; E. W. Rice, Schenectady, General Electric Co., and D. S. Kimball, of Cornell university, were among the speakers.

RICHMOND PARK ASKS BUS LINE EXTENSION

Woodley Road Cars Wanted as Far North as Ordway Street.

A resolution requesting the public utilities commission to grant the Woodley Road Bus Line permission to operate buses on Woodley road north to Ordway street and east to Thirty-fourth street was adopted by the Richmond Park Citizens association, meeting last night in the Cleveland Park Congressional church.

Horace H. Smith pointed out that citizens of the community had no transit facilities at present. Extension of the facilities of the John Eaton school, in Richmond Park, was recommended by the schools committee. Congested condition of the school building was described as a menace to the health and safety of the pupils.

Col. C. T. Caples was elected president of the association, succeeding Col. J. M. Wheeler. Other officers elected included Col. Alden Brewster, secretary.

FIRST INDOOR HORSE SHOW IS FEATURED BY EXCITING EVENTS

Riding Is Brilliant, Though Mounts Are Unruly; M. O. Exnicios Has Fall.

HIS WIFE SHOWS SKILL IN VARIOUS CLASSES

Buchholz Cup Won by Miss Elizabeth Jackson; Superb Jumping Applauded.

Brilliant riding, unruly horses, and an exciting basketball game played by ten riders, featured the first indoor horse show of the Riding and Hunt club of Washington held last night. Competition was keen throughout, with an unusually large gallery to applaud equestrian skill.

The Buchholz cup, outstanding trophy of the season, was won in the Corinthian class by Miss Elizabeth Jackson, riding "Marbelle." The award was closely contested by Capt. John H. Irving, on "Fire Jump," who won second place, and by C. H. Carrioco, who came in third with "Russet." All three riders gave a noteworthy exhibition of horsemanship, their superb jumping bringing repeated rounds of applause.

Mrs. Exnicios Stars. Adding to her laurels as one of the most accomplished equestriennes of the Capital, Mrs. Marshall Orme Exnicios, formerly Eleanor Wheeler, appeared in the various classes. Riding with Sherman Flint in the saddle pairs class, she won a blue ribbon with "Seewanda," and took second place in the open saddle class. Her enjoyment at these triumphs was somewhat marred by the fall of her husband, Mr. Exnicios, who lost his mount in the touch-and-out class. He was unhurt and resumed jumping almost immediately.

Aside from Mr. Exnicios' mishap, there were no accidents. On several occasions, however, horses proved recalcitrant and afforded trouble to their riders. One animal broke down most of the afternoon in the touch-and-out class, was supposed to clear; another caused a sensation by throwing himself against a wall, while a third plunged and partly unseated his rider in the Corinthian class. The Corinthian class, picturesque as it was on account of its pink coats and top hats, proved one of the most exciting on this account.

Events and Winners.

The events and their winners were as follows: Novice Saddle Class—Won by "Choice," Mrs. R. Roth; second, "Colonel Mitchell," Norman Clark; third, "Little Pal," Harriet Kinchloe. Open Saddle Class—Won by "Red Cloud," Miss Madeleine Alesch; second, "Russet," Mrs. M. O. Exnicios; third, "Choice," Mrs. R. Roth. Saddle Pairs—"Seewanda," and "Russet," Mrs. M. O. Exnicios and Sherman Flint; second, "Colonial" and "Red Light," Charles Carrioco and Madeleine Alesch. Touch and Out—Won by "Russet," Charles Carrioco; second, "Murad," C. E. Ewing.

Open hunter class—Won by "Eagle," Mrs. Lawson Johnson; second, "Camden," Joseph Henry; third, "Hi Ball," Nancy Hanna.

Polo ponies shown in hand—Won by "Lady Westley," Riding and Hunt club; second, "Elsbeth," Elsiebeth Jackson; third, "Sampson," Riding and Hunt club.

Corinthian Buchholz cup—Won by "Marbelle," Miss Elizabeth Jackson; second, "Russet," Capt. John H. Irving; third, "Russet," C. H. Carrioco.

Kickapoo class—Fowl goals, Maj. L. Johnson and M. O. Exnicios.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN ENDS LAST LONG MILE

After Years of Travel, Colored Fighter Under Farragut Reaches Soldiers' Home.

Arriving at Union station from Danville, Ill., shortly after 6 o'clock last night, "Uncle" Harry Johnson, 82-year-old colored civil war veteran, started on his last journey—to the Soldiers Home here.

"Uncle" Harry, who always carries the Stars and Stripes, has been a familiar figure at all of the Grand Army of the Republic encampments, having attended these celebrations throughout the country. "Uncle" Harry feels his age now, however, and these roaming days are over.

However, he did feel pert enough after his journey to tell those of the Travelers Aid society who took care of him until the ambulance from the Soldiers Home arrived, of his war record, especially about his service under Admiral Farragut in the Union navy. "Uncle" Harry also told of his friendship with "Uncle" Joe Cannon, former Speaker of the House, and how "Uncle" Joe had had his pension increased to $72 a month.

Herford Place Home Raided by Dry Squad

Capt. Guy E. Burlingame and Detective W. S. Brown, of the Tenth precinct, led a raid yesterday on the home of Joseph Miller, 42 years old, 3548 Herford place northwest, where they found a 20-gallon still in operation, they charge, together with 800 gallons of alleged mash and a gallons of alleged whisky.

Miller was taken before United States Commissioner Needham C. Tarnage and arraigned on charges of manufacturing and possessing liquor and operating an unregistered still. He was held in $1,000 bail and his case continued until tomorrow.

Youth Placed in Detention House. Gerald Jordan, 16 years old, escaped from the house of detention yesterday. Jordan is a ward of the juvenile court and lived at 135 C street northeast. He fled while a guard had his back turned. His disappearance was discovered half an hour later.

Two Church Choirs Join Lincoln Chorus

The choir of the Ninth Street Christian church and the Fifteenth Street Baptist church have joined the chorus of 500 which will sing "Lincoln" at the Friendship house concert in the Washington auditorium on January 22. There will also be a group from the George Washington University Glee club, bringing the number of organizations taking part up to ten. There will be solos by Herman Walker, barytone.

Dr. E. N. S. Barnes, director of music in the public schools of the District, will conduct the performance. The first rehearsal will be tomorrow night in the Mount Vernon Place church. At that time the choruses may vote on becoming an organization to give an annual program with the United States Marine Symphony orchestra.

WOMEN PLAN DRIVE FOR BETTER PICTURES

Club Federation Also Calls for National Census of Illiterates.

A national census of illiterates and a campaign for better "movies" was decided on yesterday by the General Federation of Women's clubs. They voted to give "close and active cooperation" to managers of moving-picture theaters offering "clean and acceptable shows."

An educational campaign among rural voters, proposed by Mrs. George W. Plummer, of Chicago, was approved as also a declaration of war on illiterates. The division of Indian welfare, that the Indians should be accorded full civil rights and adequate educational facilities and opportunities.

Request by the Department of Justice for an endorsement of a plan for a Federal prison industry board to develop industries in Federal prisons, presented by Miss Julia K. Jaffray, was laid aside.

RISE IN TEMPERATURE FORECAST FOR TODAY

Warm Rain Tomorrow Expected to Clean Streets and End Skating.

Cloudy skies, with a moderation in the temperature, is the weather prediction for today.

Rising temperature and a possibility of rain is forecast for tomorrow by the weather bureau. The warmer weather will put a stop to ice skating in Washington, although the rising temperature will be welcomed by many.

The mercury yesterday morning dropped to 13 degrees, only one point higher than the lowest temperature recorded this year. A warm rain, promised for tomorrow, will be welcomed by street cleaners, whose force of snow removers have been kept busy during the last few days.

COMMITTEE APPROVES DEMOTION OF NEWMAN

Ballou Said to Back Action Against Armstrong High School Principal.

IS CONSIDERED IN SECRET

Demotion of Arthur C. Newman, for the last several years principal of Armstrong High school, was considered at a secret meeting of the personnel committee of the board of education, meeting in Franklin school last night.

Committee action was considered on the basis of recommendations by Garnet C. Wilkinson, colored assistant superintendent of schools, under whose supervision the Armstrong High school comes. The committee, it is understood, approved the recommendations. Mr. Wilkinson's recommendations, it was said, came before the committee with the support of Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools.

The committee forbade Mr. Wilkinson to disclose what were the reasons which prompted the question of demotion of Newman. It was said he was found wanting on the score of educational qualifications under the merit system of rating teachers and principals.

The committee, of which Mrs. Coralle F. Cook is chairman, also decided on a successor to Mr. Newman, but the identity of the new principal could not be learned.

Although the board members insisted that it was a committee meeting, all members of the board were invited to attend, and E. C. Graham, president of the board, was present. Most of the white members of the board, however, were absent, apparently having decided to leave settlement of the question to the colored members of the board.

Recommendation of the personnel committee will be submitted to the next regular meeting of the board of education, and, it is expected, will be promptly approved.

GAINES RITES SATURDAY

House Subcommittee On Transit Enlarged

With a view to giving a thorough study to the local traction situation, the House District committee yesterday almost doubled the size of the subcommittee charged with the matter.

Already having a membership of five, the subcommittee was increased to nine, taking in Representatives Blanton, of Texas; Hammer, of North Carolina; Bowman, of West Virginia, and McLeod, of Michigan. Originally it embraced Representatives Zihlman, as chairman; Reid, of Illinois; Lampert, of Wisconsin; Gasque, of South Carolina, and Whitehead, of Virginia.

HONEYMOONERS FLEE QUARANTINE IN HOTEL

Bride With Diphtheria Escapes With Husband as Ambulance Arrives.

Local and New York police are looking for a bride said to be suffering from diphtheria, who is charged by health officials here with having escaped from quarantine.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Marks, honeymoon tourists, were registered from New York at a local hotel. Mrs. Marks became ill and Dr. C. W. Hyde was called. He took a culture from her throat and reported that it showed diphtheria. A card was tacked on the door of her room and Mr. Marks was instructed to arrange to take her to a hospital.

He made arrangements for her treatment at Providence hospital and for an ambulance to transport her there yesterday morning. When the conveyance arrived the couple had departed, leaving the key in the outside of the door. The quarantine card was missing.

CAPT. COTTEN RITES TODAY

Naval Officer Contracted Pneumonia Fighting Gale Last Week.

Capt. Lyman A. Cotten, U. S. N., who died at the naval hospital, Norfolk, Va., Tuesday, will be buried from the naval observatory at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Interment will be in Arlington cemetery. Rear Admiral John Halligan, Capt. F. L. Sheffield, Capt. Allan Buchanan, Capt. William C. Watts, Commander J. A. Schofield and Commander A. Stirling will be honorary pallbearers.

Information reaching the department yesterday showed that Capt. Cotten died of pneumonia contracted in the line of duty. It was reported that despite a terrific northwest gale blowing on the Atlantic, Capt. Cotten "stuck" to his post on the bridge of the U. S. S. Richmond Friday night until the flagship of Rear Admiral Magruder, of the light cruiser division, had come safely through the bad weather. Pneumonia had set in when he was transferred to the naval hospital upon the ship's arrival at Norfolk.

HARD-COAL CONTROL BY STATE PROVIDED IN BILL BY PINCHOT

Governor Would Put Industry in Public Utility Class, Message Says.

MEASURE TO END TAX BEFORE LEGISLATURE

Executive Blames Operators for Breakdown in the Peace Negotiations.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Measures providing for control and regulation of the anthracite industry, and repeal of the State anthracite tax and miners' certificate law were placed before the Pennsylvania legislature when it convened here today in extra session.

The regulatory measures, designed to place hard coal mining under the State public utility commission as a public utility and to permit compact between States for control of the retail trade, were introduced by administration legislators in pursuance of Gov. Pinchot's recommendations, set forth in the message with which he opened the session.

Others Are Independent Bills. The other two bills were independent measures, sponsored by members of the senate. One would do away with the present 1½ per cent State tax levied on coal prepared for the market. Similar attempts to repeal the tax have been made before, the last time in the 1925 regular session, but without success. The bill then had the support of representatives from the coal region and the measure introduced today was put in by Senator P. K. Joyce, of the Wilkes-Barre district.

"For many weeks," the governor said, "we have read in the newspapers a daily story of the strike of the anthracite operators against the public. Yesterday came the breakdown of the negotiations because the operators refused to do as the miners had already done—make real concessions from their original position in the interest of reaching a settlement. The matter now comes before the legislature of Pennsylvania for its action. I shall do my best to press the bill which recognizes anthracite as a public utility. That is the next step."

Miners Meet Today. New York, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—The anthracite strike situation, brought about by the disruption of the wage conferences yesterday, will be discussed by the miners at Hazleton, Pa., tomorrow by the tri-district scale committee which has the power to approve or reject the decision of its subcommittee which conducted the fruitless negotiations with the operators. The committee numbers 35, including John J. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and other international officers.

Mr. Lewis said he had no information from Washington concerning a possible attempt to bring the strike to a close by the use of opposing factions together and placed no credence in published reports that some of the operators may attempt to open the mines. The operators' committee flatly denied the reports.

Maj. W. W. Inglis, chairman of the operators' subcommittee, before leaving for his home in Scranton today, issued a statement commenting upon Mr. Lewis' reiteration yesterday that the operators were willing to arbitrate human rights, but refused to arbitrate property rights.

No Strings on Arbitration. The statement follows: "In offering to submit all phases of the wage dispute to arbitration, the operators meant exactly what they said—that the offer was made without strings or reservations, and that in making it they realized fully that the arbitration board might rule that some things, including the opening of their books and the granting of the check-off, were necessary."

"If he is so ruled, after examination of the facts, the operators would be bound to abide by the ruling. Specifically, as to the opening of the books to show cost and profit, it will be done. As to the check-off, it will be done. As to the board and all information, and data it might ask or that might be required to prove our contentions."

"We have repeatedly said in substance to the miners what I am saying now, and I do not believe there is any doubt in Mr. Lewis' mind that arbitration will develop all the facts he is so anxious to have disclosed. His objections to arbitration are based on quite different grounds. He doesn't want the facts so much as he wants to retain his own untrammelled power."

(By the Associated Press.) A bill to authorize the President to take over and operate the anthracite mines was introduced yesterday by Representative Boylan (Democrat), New York.

Numerous similar proposals have been presented in Congress, but have failed to receive serious consideration.

SCHWAB SAYS U. S. REQUIRES ECONOMY TO HOLD MARKETS

Europe, With Low Standards,
Threatens to Undersell
America, He Warns.

ADVISES ROAD BUILDERS THEIR WORK IS BENEFIT

Wasteful Competition in Auto Industry, However, Held Unnecessary.

Chicago, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Co., tonight reiterated his forecast of continued prosperity voiced in Chicago last fall, but to it he coupled a stern warning of the paramount necessity of economy throughout the whole economic structure of the United States.

A defeated Europe, with a lowered standard of living, men working harder and longer hours at reduced wages threatens to undersell American goods, despite tariff walls, he told those at the banquet of the twenty-third annual conference of the American Road Builders' Association.

"The only barrier that will save our own markets and the foreign markets where we want to have a place will be the barrier of economical production," he said.

Road Building Economical. Expenditure of great sums for road building fitted in with his idea of economy, however, because of the ultimate benefit for all the people. "The road building industry is in every sense constructive. I do not look upon expenditure for new roads as expense or money used unprofitably. I look upon it rather as an investment which yields high returns to all the people, returns by the most desirable method by which profits can be realized, namely, through economy in the actual conduct of the day's work. The saving to our farmers and to all our people, and the reduced wear and tear on motor cars and vehicles generally through improved roads is infinitely more than the cost of interest and maintenance of these roads."

He regarded the automobile as "no longer a mere luxury; it is a necessity," and foresaw vast opportunities for producing new wealth and happiness through the combination of good roads and increasing use of motor cars.

Unnecessary Competition. "We in this country can never lose sight of the need for economy in the conduct of business," he said. "I am a great enthusiast about the automobile business, for instance, but when I think of the waste of unnecessary competition and duplication of effort, I am impressed with the limitless possibilities which lie in the combination of interests, and the great savings which can be transmitted to consumers and thus make possible still greater growth of this amazing industry."

His greatest confidence in the immediate future prosperity of the United States he got from "the fact that there is now prevailing a healthier and happier relationship between employers and employees in this country."

"Bolshevism is tabooed by our greatest labor organization; socialism is at a very low ebb. Our employers are realizing that our greatest prosperity comes in improving the lot of the men who work with them; and employees are realizing that little is gained through fighting those who invest their money in industry or those who spend their time in the conduct of industry."

"With employers and employees sitting down to discuss their common interest together, and then working hard to promote the welfare of one another, we find a condition justifying enthusiasm over the future which we have not been justified in feeling for many years past."

CHANCELLOR AGAIN

DR. HANS LUTHER.

Luther Again Called To Form a Cabinet

Berlin, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—President von Hindenburg today commissioned Chancellor Luther to form another cabinet.

Dr. Luther was given the mandate after both Erich Koch, the democratic leader, and former Chancellor Fehrenbach, of the center party, had informed the president that a "big coalition" government was impossible.

When Dr. Luther's cabinet resigned early in December, following the signing of the Locarno treaties, it was announced that the resignation was to leave the way clear for the formation of such a coalition with the object of carrying out the Locarno policies.

TRINKLE FOR TAX RAISE ON "GAS" AND INCOMES

Would Thus Meet Expenditures Unprovided For in Virginia Budget.

STATE ASSEMBLY OPENS

Richmond, Va., Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Increase of the gasoline and income taxes, the taxing of motion picture shows, cosmetics, public service corporations and insurance companies and the placing in the general fund, to be appropriated by the general assembly, of all taxes collected, were recommended by Gov. Lee Trinkle in his address to the general assembly, which convened here this afternoon. The governor recommended that the gasoline tax be increased to 5 cents a gallon and left the amount of increase in the income tax to the legislature.

The increases were proposed to meet expenditures which could not be met by the budget but which Gov. Trinkle declared necessary if State activities were to grow. The governor's message was probably the most comprehensive ever delivered by any governor in the history of Virginia. Virtually every phase of State activity was discussed, its present condition compared with that of previous years and remedies suggested.

Taxation and the highway system were given considerable attention in the governor's message. Although he did not go into detail as to tax measures that should be passed, Gov. Trinkle recommended a reduction in the tax rate on intangibles, foreign stocks owned by Virginia citizens, the tax on capital and the tax on property owned in Virginia by nonresident citizens decreased.

He made the recommendation that the suggestions of the tax commission, which will be presented to the general assembly, be seriously considered and the laws revised after a study of these.

After stating that the highway system in Virginia had been increased from 1,300 miles in 1922 to 4,800 miles today and that there would be a continuous concrete stretch of 2,095 miles after the 1926 allocation, Gov. Trinkle said that during his administration $54,373,000 had been spent for construction and maintenance of State and county highways as compared with only $10,822,000 during the previous administration.

British Not to Race For Schneider Cup

London, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—The Royal Aero club today reached a definite decision not to compete in the 1926 Schneider cup race. The air ministry intimated to the club that for reasons of economy, the building of high-speed machines must be limited and that there is insufficient time to build new machines for the Schneider race if held in October as now planned.

BRIAND CABINET SPLIT; RADICALS ARE WARNED

Will Not Be Crowded Out by Committee, Premier of France Asserts.

CHAMBER FIGHT SOUGHT

Paris, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—The radicals and socialists pursued their efforts to smother the Briand government in the finance committee of the chamber today. Meanwhile there was diligent canvassing of the deputies by the minister of the interior, M. Chaumets, in the lobbies, furnishing tangible evidence that "the spirit of Locarno," which the premier not long ago said had penetrated the councils of his official family, had disappeared from the cabinet.

M. Chaumets openly solicited the votes of the deputies against M. Doumer's financial measures which he and the other radical ministers had voted for in a cabinet meeting just before the holiday. This fresh outbreak within the government gave rise to excited comment, though it was far from a surprise to a good many of the deputies, who were aware that the agreement in the cabinet on M. Doumer's bills was merely a holiday truce.

M. Briand's friends were promptly on the trail of the recalcitrant minister of the interior, warning the deputies that the premier would not submit to being crowded out of office by the chamber committee and that whatever was decided in the committee room there must be an open debate in the chamber, in which all the parties must take their share of responsibility.

M. Doumer's bills must be passed before the end of the month, they said, or the government would have to ask for another increase in the circulation of the franc, already again weakening under the influence of the political maneuvers around the financial problem and if the situation grew worse through partisan action of the groups, blame must be placed where it belonged.

There will likely be a conflict at the cabinet meeting tomorrow when it is expected M. Briand will notify his colleagues that he means to fight the battle to a finish and that if the radical ministers repeat their threat to resign he will, with the backing of President Doumergue, fill their places and bring the issue at once before the chamber.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY LEADERS ASK EARLY ACTION ON TAX BILL

National Chiefs Send Word to the Senate Minority to Aid Passage.

SIMMONS REITERATES STAND FOR BIGGER CUT

Announces, However, He Will Not Delay Passage; Schedules Being Completed.

National Democratic party leaders yesterday sent word to minority members of the Senate finance committee, who have sponsored a substitute tax-reduction program, urging them to facilitate early passage of the pending revenue bill even at the expense of success of their plan.

After a conference with Clegg Shaver, chairman of the Democratic national committee, Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking Democrat of the committee, reiterated that he expected his program for increased tax reduction to be approved by the Senate, but that he would not hold up passage of the bill in the effort to bring about its adoption. On the contrary, he said, he was ready to fight for early passage.

The national party leaders were not represented specifically as opposed to the substitute program, which calls for tax reductions of $330,000,000 instead of $330,000,000 as written into the non-partisan House bill, but it was made clear that they believed early enactment of the measure to assure tax reduction by March 15 was more important.

President Urges Early Vote.

A similar view is held by President Coolidge, who believes that nonpartisan consideration of the bill by the Senate, as by the House, would tend to bring more prompt action.

While the Democratic members of the committee were united in believing tax reductions of $500,000,000 should be made at this time, a proposal already rejected by the committee, Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, a former Secretary of the Treasury, has taken a stand similar to that set forth yesterday in behalf of the party leaders.

Republican leaders, meanwhile, have declared they would clear the road in the Senate for the bill when it is reported by the committee. Chairman Smoot said yesterday it would be impossible for the committee to report the bill before next week.

With only a few more rate schedules to be acted upon, the committee spent another full day in hearing representatives of the special committee which investigated the internal revenue bureau. Consideration was given particularly to the question of discovery depletion allowances to oil and mining companies.

NICARAGUA BANISHES SACASA, VISITOR HERE

Move Is Regarded as Step for Gen. Chamorro to Take Over Presidency.

(By Associated Press.)

The Nicaraguan congress has banished Vice President Sacasa, who is in Washington, for two years, and has declared his office vacant.

This action, made known yesterday by the State Department, was interpreted by observers as clearing the way for the assumption of the presidency by Gen. Emiliano Chamorro, war minister and leader of the October coup which obviously had this objective in view. A student Solorzano is scheduled to resign Friday and Chamorro, having been made "first designate" by the Nicaraguan congress, undoubtedly expects to succeed to the office without further maneuvers.

Warnings through the American Minister, C. C. Eberhardt, at Managua, and the Nicaraguan Minister here, Salvador Castillejo, that carrying out of his plans would cause the United States to withdraw its recognition from his government have failed to deter Chamorro in his course. He is understood to have expressed the opinion that such action would be a "bluff" on the part of the State Department and that, despite its policy not to have dealings with governments brought into being by force, it would find a way within a few weeks to recognize him.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon January 13 and recessed 4:45 p. m. until today at 12 o'clock.

Senator Shipstead, of Minnesota, spoke in opposition to the world court proposal.

Senator McLean (Republican), of Connecticut, spoke in favor of the world court. The proposal also was supported by Senator McKinley, of Illinois, and Senator Walsh, of Montana.

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, gave notice that he would speak today on his proposed investigation of the tariff commission.

Wallace McCamant, of Oregon, whose nomination as judge of the Ninth circuit was referred back to the judiciary committee, has been invited to appear before that body to explain charges made against him in executive session.

Under terms of a resolution by Senator Shipstead, the foreign relations committee would be directed to publish an abstract and index of all correspondence existing in the State Department bearing upon the Versailles treaty.

Senator Dill (Democrat), of Washington, charged President Coolidge with exerting "executive interference" in the functions of regulatory bodies through appointments.

Senator Fletcher, of Florida, speaking on the Shipping Board, said the president had made it a mere rubber stamp.

Thomas F. Woodcock, of New York, was again under cross-examination before the Interstate Commerce committee.

Assistant Attorney General Donovan, in charge of the case against the Aluminum Co., was again before the judiciary committee and examined by Senator Walsh.

Confirmed nominations of Richard V. Taylor to be member Interstate Commerce Commission; Ernest O. Patterson, solicitor of the department of the interior; C. Rogers Arundell, member, board of appeals; Charles H. Holtzman, collector of customs at Baltimore; and Benjamin F. Woelper, jr., postmaster of Baltimore.

HOUSE.

Met at noon January 13 and adjourned at 5:10 p. m. until today at 12 o'clock.

Continued consideration of the world war debt settlement agreements.

Appropriations committee reported Naval bill.

Under bill by Mr. Bacon, of New York, Mexico would be placed under the immigration quota.

The President would be authorized to take temporary control of anthracite coal mines and mine coal under a bill by Mr. Boylan, of New York.

Additional expenditure of $375,000,000 for Federal aid in constructing rural post roads in next three years, and of $30,000,000 for forest roads and trails, is proposed in a bill by Mr. Almon, of Alabama.

Department of Commerce officials were witnesses before the committee investigating the rubber situation.

Director Frank T. Hines was the principal witness before veterans' committee.

Secretary Wilbur recommended to the naval committee the construction of an alrship to replace the Shenandoah.

Federal Judge George W. English continued argument in his defense before judiciary committee on impeachment proceedings.

Before committee on agriculture former Gov. Frank O. Lowden approved legislation extending Federal aid to farmers' cooperative organizations.

93 KILLED BY BLAST IN MINE, IS BELIEF

no attempt to remove the bodies to the surface until it has been ascertained that there are no living men in the mine.

The large crowd had not dispersed at the entrance of the mine at dusk tonight. Efforts are being made to install electric lights around the mining area.

An Italian miner took his small son into the mine this morning to "show him how it worked." They were among those trapped.

The Salvation army has opened a fund stand near the mine and the members of that organization are doing all possible to aid in every way.

Hospital Train Is Ready.

A hospital train was being made up here for transportation of injured miners at McAlester.

The shaft of the mine where the explosion occurred is 400 feet deep. Austin Parks, sheriff of Latimer county, where the mine is located, decided that any survivors have less than 1 chance in 100 of being brought to the surface alive. Parks and his full force of deputies are assisting in the rescue work.

Troops Ordered Out.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Gov. M. E. Trapp today ordered a company of national guard at McAlester to report to Wilburton, where more than 100 men were entombed in a mine explosion. They are wanted for guard duty.

Col. E. H. Head, of Muskogee, was placed in charge of the company. Medical officers of the guard who live in McAlester and surrounding towns will be rushed to the scene of the disaster. Col. Head was in charge of guardsmen during disturbances in the Henryetta coal mining area last year.

Dead in Japanese Mine.

Tokyo, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Vernacular dispatches from Fukuoka report seventeen dead and twenty-three injured in the mine explosion in No. 3 pit of the Takamasa colliery in northern Kyushu.

The explosion occurred last night. Rescue workers who entered the pit after the first explosion were overtaken by further blasts.

White Sewing Machine Sold.

New York, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Control of the White Sewing Machine Co., of Cleveland, whose history dates back to the civil war, has been purchased from the Thomas White estate by a group consisting of A. H. Rodgers, president; Oscar Grothe, vice president; Lage & Co. and Hemphill, Noyes & Co., for a price reported to be around $9,000,000.

FASCISM EXTENDS PROPAGANDA HERE, RAINEY DECLARES

Representative Demands Inquiry, Denouncing Terms of Italian Pact.

REBUKED BY BURTON, DEFENDING DEBT PLAN

La Guardia Urges Generosity to Italy; Andrew Asks Leniency for France.

Secrets of the Italian fascist propaganda he says is at work in the United States were revealed in the House yesterday by Representative Rainey (Democrat), Illinois, as a preface to his demand for a congressional investigation. Denouncing the terms of the Italian debt settlement, Mr. Rainey launched an attack on fascism in Italy, charged that Premier Mussolini is extending an iron hand to cover Italians in the United States, and ended by warning the Republican majority that unless it initiated an investigation within three days he would put them on record by introducing a resolution directing the inquiry.

The attack brought Mr. Rainey a rebuke from Representative Burton (Republican), Ohio, a member of the American debt commission which aided in the negotiation of the Italian debt settlement.

House Standards Lowered.

"These remarks about the Italian government," declared Mr. Burton, "lower the standards of the House. I sometimes wonder how the gentlemen who inveigh against fascism so vehemently now reconcile this with their silence and unwillingness to act when the Germans were blowing up Belgium."

"More is at stake in this settlement than mere money. The whole future of good international relations is in the balance. The question is not Mussolini or a few Italian hot-heads. I dare say there is violence in Italy. But there is good deal of violence in this country, and the societies indulging in it are not all made up of foreigners, either."

Heated by Count Ignacius Thacon Di Revel, a New York bond salesman, the American branch of fascism includes chapters in 36 of the largest cities in the country, according to Representative Rainey, who added that 52 more chapters are organized and awaiting charters. These chapters, Mr. Rainey declared, "are Italian colonies in America," and their members are urged by the dictator to remain Italian to the seventh generation.

Questionnaires submitted by prospective members are forwarded to Rome, and the applicant, according to Mr. Rainey, who read from a booklet which he declared had been smuggled out of Italy and was one of a few copies which had not been seized by Mussolini, swears "unlimited unquestioning obedience to the fascist."

There are prospects for action on the debt settlement today.

Among those favoring the debt agreement, yesterday was Representative La Guardia (Socialist), New York, who is of Italian origin. Mr. La Guardia said it was not a question of the character of the Italian government, but rather an act of generosity and friendship for the Italian people.

Italians Pay Debt.

"We should not lose sight of the fact that after all back of the king, back of the government, back of any particular administration," the representative said, "there is the Italian people, who, in the last analysis, pay the bills and it is to the Italian people that the American people extend a material and generous reduction of the war debt."

Representative Burton said that it will only be by an independent investigation in Italian conditions that even the small initial payments provided by the agreement can be met.

"How gladly would we have collected cash for the collection of this bill by casting economic consideration to the winds, by raising a great ado about the fascist."

"We must not ignore the fact that the people of the United States, to us for policies of generosity. We must not insist on the utmost farthing when such insistence would degrade ourselves and defeat the objects we are seeking."

Representative Andrew (Republican), Massachusetts, approved the Italian debt settlement and suggested similar generosity for France.

Without the slightest question of all the countries associated with us in the war, France bore the brunt and the heaviest burden," said Mr. Andrew. "Italy lost nearly 700,000 lives in the war, but France lost nearly 1,700,000."

After this function, the custom of cabinet officers and their wives entertaining the President and First Lady at formal dinners will be revived.

Robinson Aids Drive For Philippine Waifs

Assistant Secretary of the Navy T. Douglas Robinson yesterday was enrolled as an active member of the general committee in charge of the drive to raise Washington's $100,000 share of the $2,000,000 national fund for the relief of 18,000 neglected children of American parentage in the Philippine islands.

Mr. Robinson is familiar with the conditions under which American waifs are growing up in the islands, and he has pledged his aid to the efforts of the American Guardian association to help them. Assistant Secretary Robinson will serve with Maj. Gen. Henry T. Allen, who is honorary chairman of the Washington committee. Representative Harold Knutson, of Minnesota, also was enrolled as a member of the committee yesterday.

Taxes Get More of Rail Money Than Do Owners

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Tax collectors get more from the American railroads than the stockholders, Patrick E. Crowley, president of the New York Central railroad, told the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce tonight at the annual dinner of that organization. The net revenues from 60,000 miles of lines are completely absorbed by taxes, he said.

"On the New York Central, with $13,000 a mile net revenue, it takes the earnings of 3,000 miles of our lines to pay the taxes," he said. "In other words, one mile out of every four is working for the government."

Considering the general level of prices and the cost of production, with the efficiency and dependability of railroad service, he added, railroad transportation today is one of the cheapest things the business man can buy.

OREGON MAN EXPECTED TO SUCCEED B. E. HANEY

Dana and Schull, Both of Portland, Mentioned for Shipping Board Post.

DILL DEFENDS INCUMBENT

(By the Associated Press.)

While President Coolidge was giving further consideration yesterday to the selection of a successor to Bert E. Haney, of Oregon, as a member of the Shipping Board, Mr. Haney's official actions were defended in the Senate.

Senator McNary (Republican), Oregon, who called yesterday at the White House, is encouraged in the belief that an Oregon man will be named in place of Mr. Haney, who is serving under a recess appointment, which he refused some months ago to relinquish at the President's request.

Since a Republican was nominated to the board Monday from the Pacific coast to succeed Meyer Lissner, it was demanded that the President would select a Democrat to take Mr. Haney's place. The name of Marshall N. Dana, of Portland, a Democrat, has been suggested by Senator McNary, along with the name of Frank A. Schull, of Portland, a Republican.

The defense of Mr. Haney was launched in the Senate by Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, who declared that the President's action in requesting his resignation was not in keeping with the spirit of the law.

The senator said the reason the resignation was demanded was because the chief executive felt Mr. Haney had violated an agreement not to seek the removal of President Palmer of the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

REALIGNED NAVAL AIR FORCE RECOMMENDED

Huge Dirigible and Personnel Cut in Appropriation Bill Reported to House.

(By Associated Press.)

Realignment of the nation's naval air defenses, including construction of a new and larger dirigible to replace the wrecked Shenandoah, is contemplated in the administration's navy program now taking shape in Congress.

The reorganization would be accomplished by economies in other branches of the naval service, including a reduction of navy enlisted personnel from $6,000 to $2,000, and withdrawal of a number of warships from active duty.

The House appropriation committee also has decided there is no present need of maintaining the Lakehurst naval air station, whose only dirigible, the Los Angeles, now is laid up in her hangar.

In reporting yesterday the naval appropriation bill, the committee suggested that by closing down the station, the cost of its maintenance could be reduced from $1,716,000 to $128,000. Such a step is not favored by the Navy Department, which has suggested that if the station were closed, a separate arrangement would have to be made to take care of the Los Angeles.

Daweses to Entertain Coolidges at Dinner

(By the Associated Press.)

The President and Mrs. Coolidge will be the guests of the Vice President and Mrs. Dawes at dinner at the Vice President's residence next Tuesday.

After this function, the custom of cabinet officers and their wives entertaining the President and First Lady at formal dinners will be revived.

Iowa Farm Federation Indorses Louden's Fight

Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—The Iowa Farm Bureau federation in allied convention here with two other State farm organizations today created its endorsement of an export corporation for the disposal of crop surpluses and indorses F. O. Louden in his fight for that form of agriculture relief.

The national cooperative marketing conference at Washington, a resolution approved, was embodied in a telegram to the former Illinois governor, which "said the bureau 'stands for cooperation, but believes with you, that cooperation can not reestablish the farmer's purchasing power in time to save him without an enabling act providing for immediate creation of an export corporation that will distribute the costs to all producers benefited.'"

DONOVAN STRIKES BACK AT CRITICS IN ALUMINUM INQUIRY

Says Interest of Federal Officer Would Make Him More Careful.

HE "GLADLY" ASSUMES RESPONSIBILITY IN CASE

Sargent Aid Denies Knowing of White House Talk on Question.

(By the Associated Press.)

Concluding his statement before the Senate judiciary committee, William J. Donovan, assistant to the Attorney General, struck back vigorously yesterday at the critics of the Department of Justice with respect to the investigations now being made to determine whether the Aluminum Co. of America has violated Federal court decrees.

Declaring that the whole imputation was that the Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission were seeking to "protect" a company in which Secretary Mellon is largely interested, Mr. Donovan said he was charged with the responsibility of enforcing antitrust laws and "gladly assumes that responsibility."

Learned Duty Elsewhere.

"I don't give a damn whether this is a Mellon company or any other concern," he said. "In point of fact, because some officer of the government is interested, I would be more meticulous in pressing the investigation."

"And I want to say another thing. I have learned the obligations to my country in other places than around this table."

Part of the inquiry yesterday revolved around the statement which the Department of Justice issued January 2, saying that the investigation thus far had not disclosed facts to support the charge that the Aluminum Co. had violated the consent decree.

Unknowning of Conference.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, prosecutor of the Senate investigation, inquired as to a White House conference between President Coolidge, Secretary Mellon and Attorney General Sargent on the same day that the statement was issued. Mr. Donovan said he had no knowledge of such a conference. He added that he had submitted the statement to the Attorney General early in the afternoon and that it had been issued late in the day.

"Did it not strike you as a coincidence that this conference was held on the day the statement was issued?" asked Senator Walsh.

"I do not know whether the conference was held before or after I submitted the statement," Mr. Donovan returned.

CINCINNATI SHERIFF INDICTED IN BEER CASE

Said to Have Introduced a Bootlegger Who Sold Illegal Product.

(By Associated Press.)

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Federal investigation of a "beer ring" alleged to have distributed and sold thousands of barrels of illegal beer in Cincinnati, resulted today in the grand jury returning indictments against County Sheriff Richard B. Witt and seven other persons, including officials and employees of the Mohawk brewery here.

George R. Osterfeld, president, and Joseph Osterfeld, vice president of the brewery company, were named in the indictments.

Harry "Butch" Workman, alleged bootlegger, is charged with having received and distributed the beer. The other defendants were truck drivers and brewery workers, named as conspirators. Sheriff Witt, according to the specific charges in the indictment, aided and abetted the beer plot by introducing Workman to the Osterfelds as a distributing agent. Witt emphatically denied that he was ever involved in the ring.

KLANSMEN TO JAIL FOR RESTAURANT RAID

Four Men Sentenced After Conviction by Judge in Birmingham.

(By Associated Press.)

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—A verdict of guilty was returned today by Judge Henry J. Martin in police court against four men tried on charges of complicity in raids conducted January 2 on three Chinese restaurants by robed and masked men.

The following fines and jail sentences were imposed: W. J. Worthington, $100 and 90 days in jail; W. W. Israel, $100 and 90 days; J. T. Harwell, $100 and 30 days; W. D. Haynie, $50 and a suspended sentence of 90 days.

Worthington and Israel are officials in the Ku Klux Klan. Judge Martin, in his decision, declared that from the evidence Worthington and Israel were the leaders and instigators of a raiding party when "several guests were unlawfully and illegally searched," and had induced Harwell to go along while they actually conducted the raid.

Bill Planned to Aid Wood in Philippines

A bill, radically amending the present organic act for the Philippines and materially strengthening the hands of Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood, will be introduced in the House within the next month with the cooperation of the War Department and the support of the Coolidge administration.

At present Republican members of the committee on insular affairs are working out measure with War Department experts. This measure has not been completed, but it will surely attempt to undo "the harm done by Gov. Harrison," as one member of the committee put it, and radically alter the Jones act, passed by a Democratic Congress, under which the islands are now governed.

LOWDEN OCCASIONS RIPT IN COOPERATIVE MEETING

Appeals for Federal Aid to Remedy Farm Situation on Surplus Crops.

OPPOSES BINGHAM PLAN

(By the Associated Press.)

The first major difference of opinion in the discussion of the surplus products question by the fourth national cooperative marketing conference developed last night when former Gov. Lowden of Illinois, dirt farmer champion, appealed for some form of Federal legislation to remedy the situation.

The farmers themselves might find a solution, he asserted if completely organized, but they were not and he believed some legislation should be enacted providing means of relief from surpluses on their surplus until they could extend their cooperative methods.

Mr. Lowden, a member of the executive committee of the National Council of Farmers' Cooperative Marketing Association, disagreed with previous remarks on the surplus question by Robert W. Bingham, of Louisville, chairman of the council, and Aaron Sapiro, attorney for the cooperative marketing associations, who held that no legislation of this kind was needed, but that the farmers should be left alone to work out their own solution of the surplus problem.

While not advocating any specific remedy in his address at the conference, Mr. Lowden said that at the annual banquet last night, Mr. Lowden, before the House agriculture committee yesterday, not only supported the Haugen bill providing for a division of cooperative marketing in the Department of Agriculture, but proposed an excise tax to meet the expense of handling surpluses.

Lady Cynthia Mosley And Husband in U. S.

(By Associated Press.)

New York, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Lady Cynthia Mosley and her husband, Oswald Mosley, arrived today on the Majestic to make a study of labor and industrial conditions in this country. Lady Cynthia Mosley, daughter of the late Marquis Curzon, former Viceroy of India, and granddaughter of the late Lord Z. Leiter, of Chicago, said that both she and her husband would stand for parliament at the next elections in England. Both came into international political prominence in 1924, when they espoused the cause of socialism in England.

BANK PERSONALITY

Banks, like people, have a definite personality. A bank's personality is based on the principles and policy of the men who direct it.

In this institution you will find a personality based upon over a third of a century of administration by practically the same officers, a present-day directorate worthy of the best traditions of the past and an organization pre-eminently fitted for the needs of the present.

Let us get acquainted with you.

THE JUDICIAL POWER.

A justice of the United States Supreme Court was recently asked this question:

If the United States should adhere to the protocol containing the statute of the international court of justice and submit to that court a case involving the interpretation of a treaty, would the court's judgment supersede and set aside an interpretation of the treaty by the United States Supreme Court, if the two decisions should be in conflict?

The reply was as follows:

I do not think I should answer that question, for the reason that the Supreme Court may be called upon to consider it.

The inference to be drawn from this reply is that the constitutionality of the attempt to take away the judicial power of the United States Supreme Court and place it in a foreign tribunal may hereafter come up for consideration by the only authority which can pass upon it—the United States Supreme Court.

The scars of war heal, and you seldom see a former buck who still yearns to lick a lieutenant.

COOPERATIVE MARKETING.

Cooperative marketing is attracting public attention in connection with plans to relieve the farm situation. Since 1918 the growth of cooperative farm associations has been phenomenal. Today there are more than 12,000 with a membership of some 1,500,000, doing a business of something like $2,500,000,000 annually. About 85 per cent are agencies for the sale of dairy products, grain, fruit, vegetables, cotton, live stock and wool. About 45 per cent are located in the west and north central States. About 25 per cent in the east central States, 5 per cent in the middle Atlantic States, and about 4 per cent in the west south central States.

The impetus back of this modern cooperative marketing movement among the farmers is economy in marketing and better prices for farmers. It is claimed that considerable economy is accomplished by means of cooperation in shipment. California fruit growers, Virginia potato growers, Southern fruit growers, Wisconsin fruit growers, dairymen and potato growers, Oregon apple growers, and New York milk producers all report a great saving in the marketing of their commodities.

Secretary Jardine believes the solution of the farmer's troubles lies through cooperative associations. In a recent address in Philadelphia, the Secretary said:

Cooperation is not merely a means of obtaining a better price for a single year's crop, but a means of gradually adapting production to market demands, of insuring less wasteful distribution, of reducing the spread between what the farmer receives and what the consumer pays.

While modern distribution is the development of years of intense effort, and is essential to modern business, nevertheless the farmers and the public in general want to know if it is necessary for the farmer to receive only 96 cents per bushel for potatoes while the public pays $2.13 per bushel; for the farmer to receive $3.86 per bushel for his beans while the public pays from $7 to $8 per bushel; for the grower of peaches to receive about $1.08 per bushel while the public pays about $9.48 per bushel; for the grower of apples to receive about $1.68 per bushel while the public pays from $3 to $4 per bushel; for the farmer to receive a small sum for his eggs, butter and vegetables while the public pays five or six times for the same commodities; for the farmer to receive about $6.50 per 100 pounds for beef cattle while the consumer of beef pays from 50 to 60 cents per pound.

Here is a large field of inquiry touching the possibility of "farm relief" without resorting to schemes for establishing government export monopolies.

In a little while the younger generation will be 40, and then we grannies will be urging it not to scold the kids that way.

THE SESQUICENTENNIAL.

Philadelphia is in a stew over the question whether it shall hold its sesquicentennial celebration this year or wait until next year. The plans of the exposition managers have not worked out as expected. It became necessary to cut down the size of the show because funds were not forthcoming. Then the exposition manager resigned, but Mayor Kendrick insisted upon going ahead with the affair. The problem the sesquicentennial promoters have to deal with is whether it will be better to hold a smaller show in 1926 or postpone the undertaking until next year and prepare for a more elaborate exposition.

Foreign nations have been invited to take part, and some of them have accepted the invitation, but it is unlikely that foreign governments will be represented extensively if the exposition is to be no more than a State fair. President Coolidge has given his support to the project in every possible way, but the sentiment in Congress appears to be that the government should not make plans for an exhibit which would involve a large expenditure of money.

Chicago found it necessary in 1892, the quadricentennial of the landing of Columbus, to put off its exposition until the following year, though dedication ceremonies were held in 1892. The success of the enterprise amply demonstrated the wisdom of the postponement.

The guest knocks when he arrives, but most of the knocking is done by men who haven't arrived.

THE PUBLIC ALONE WINS.

Failure of the anthracite coal parley in New York has resulted in a chaotic situation in the industry. The miners have suddenly found their hopes of peace blasted. They must continue to subsist on the charity of their neighbors. The bread lines in the coal regions are rapidly stretching out into long processions of haggard men and women. Little children, their faces pinched and showing the signs of undernourishment, emphasize the growing distress. "Bootleggers" of coal are plying their trade. Business among the merchants whose livelihood depends upon the patronage of the miners is at a low ebb. The general grievance committee in one of the districts has urged the calling out of the maintenance men, which would result in the flooding of the mines and untold damage. The miners' representatives would welcome intervention by the government, and, it is said, are looking toward Washington. President Coolidge has repeatedly indicated that he will maintain his policy of hands-off. Congress has had before it for a long time the recommendation of the Federal fact-finding commission, but has failed to take action of any kind.

The Pennsylvania legislature, called in extraordinary session by Gov. Pinchot, will consider two bills providing for control of the anthracite industry as a public utility under the Pennsylvania public service commission. Should the operators carry out their declared purpose of reopening the mines by employing nonunion workers, riots would follow, and the country would probably be treated to a spectacle of wholesale bloodshed.

The industry is slowly committing suicide, because 40,000,000 consumers of anthracite have found that it is not essential to their comfort and happiness to have hard coal for their furnaces.

It has been intimated that Mr. Lewis' stubborn resistance to all peace plans is due to a conviction that the course he is pursuing is the only one by which he can save his organization in the bituminous industry.

The operators are influenced, it is said, by a determination to place the industry on a stable basis and insure uninterrupted operation of the mines.

The parties to the controversy have demonstrated their utter inability to get together. It is apparent that some outside agency must be invoked if peace is to be established. In the meantime the great consuming public is the only winner.

And yet the most dismal failures in connection with marriage are failures to get married.

TWO NEW YORK MAYORS.

John F. Hylan, former mayor of New York, must contemplate with varying emotions the wholehearted support that has apparently been given his successor in office by citizens of the metropolis regardless of politics. A few days ago Hylan made preparations to move his residence from the city out into the suburbs of Brooklyn at a place which once he peevishly referred to as "the town that gave me only four votes." His narrowness of vision is in sharp contrast to the course which Mayor "Jimmy" Walker has mapped out for his administration. The new mayor took a flying trip to Albany a day or two ago, and appealed to his former Republican colleagues in the legislature, where he had served for sixteen years, to forget politics in the interest of the big city. Whereupon the Republican leaders promptly agreed that all party lines should be wiped out for the common good.

The mayor went back to New York and to a gathering of guests of the Associated Business for a Better New York said this:

"Now we are going to work, and I am going to work as the hired man of our folks in this town. Let's do this thing in a big way. There need be no signs, nor banners, no bands for anybody's personal exploitation. If it is worth while doing at all it is worth while doing for the city itself. So let's submerge ourselves and let me feel that it is convenient for you to have me say: 'Come in and let's settle this subway situation. Let's settle this traffic situation. Let's settle this garbage disposal thing and let's go out, irrespective of race, color, creed or politics or any other consideration that might enter into the mind of a man; let us vote out and find that, no matter whom he voted for, who is willing to come in and help this community to get in a little healthier and better condition.'"

With such a spirit in control of the municipal affairs of New York there is good ground for hope in the future of that great city. What must Mr. Hylan in his retreat think of this?

A boundary is an invisible line that places the oil on England's side.

DEVELOPMENT OF IRELAND.

The recent settlement of the Irish boundary question, and the promise which it holds forth of an era of peace and prosperity both in the Free State and in Northern Ireland, has produced a remarkable reaction in the establishment in Dublin of a trust company, one-third of the capital stock of which is held by prominent Americans. Americans, as a rule, are chary about investing their money in an enterprise centered in a foreign country, unless they see a good prospect for the safety of their capital and a reasonable expectation of a profitable return. The inference, therefore, is that, in the minds of those who have embarked their money in the Dublin enterprise, no fears exist as to the possible sweeping away of their original outlay or the anticipated profits thereon by any internal disturbance. On the contrary, by their investment they have shown their confidence both in the stability of the Irish government and in the future of Ireland.

That that confidence is justified there can scarcely be a doubt. In a very short time and under exceptional difficulties, the Free State government has not only brought order out of chaos but has also initiated, for the improvement of the country and the welfare of its inhabitants, a number of practical schemes, some of them on a large scale. Drainage and reclamation of formerly flooded lands, forestation, electrification, road making, better methods of agriculture and more varied crops, industrial expansion, fisheries, and a higher standard of general and technical education—these are only a few of the outstanding problems which the government has tackled with a vigor and ability astonishing to friends and foes alike.

Ireland has always been known as a country of great national resources. It would seem as if, under the new dispensation, the development of these resources, so often retarded in the past by an untoward fate and even, on occasion, by hostile legislation, is at last about to be undertaken in an intelligent and sympathetic spirit and by up-to-date scientific methods. The success of these efforts, if persevered in as begun, may be regarded as assured.

There is nothing new under the sun except now and then a new definition of the word "naughty."

FEDERAL ESTATE TAX.

Senator Fletcher of Florida makes a very ingenious argument against the constitutionality of the Federal estate tax as proposed in the 1926 tax bill.

Indirect taxes—duties, imposts and excises—must be uniform throughout the United States. The Supreme Court has decided that the word "uniform" is synonymous with "to operate generally throughout the United States."

There are two States—Florida and Alabama—which under their constitutions can not impose an inheritance tax. Nevada has repealed her inheritance tax as of the first day of July, 1926.

An estate in Florida, Alabama and Nevada will pay no inheritance tax to the State. An estate in any other State will pay an inheritance tax in amounts varying according to the laws of those States.

The report of the ways and means committee, referring to the proposed Federal estate tax and the plan to credit back to the estate in the State 80 per cent of the Federal estate tax, says "This provision would have a far-reaching effect in promoting uniformity among States." Senator Fletcher asks: "Where is the authority of Congress to lay taxes to promote legislative authority among the States?"

With 80 per cent credited back, the Federal estate tax would not be uniform, says the senator. The provision, he adds, is to be held as a club over the States to compel them to provide for death taxes equal to 80 per cent of the Federal tax. Such a tax would not be "to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States."

A single man can't tell much about women, and a married man is afraid to.

The board of aldermen of New York is not as chivalrous a body as the national House of Representatives or some of the State legislatures that have women in their membership. Mrs. John T. Pratt, first woman alderman to be elected to the New York city council, has been denied a place on any of the important committees of the organization because the Democrats outvoted the Republicans, and Mrs. Pratt is a Republican. This is not in keeping with Mayor Walker's policy. Mrs. Pratt should appeal to the new municipal head of the big city.

John D. Rockefeller, 87-year-old multimillionaire, never misses an opportunity to impress upon those with whom he has dealings the importance of thrift. The members of his own household do not escape. Recently he took to task one of his guards whom he found wearing a $15 pair of shoes. Mr. Rockefeller wanted to know how the man could afford to wear such costly shoes when he earned only $4.50 a day. Fortunately for the guard the shoes were a present. Then the aged millionaire delivered himself of this precept: "Live within your means and save part of your earnings." Wholesome advice not always practiced.

Competition is the life of trade. Ten days ago the International Harvester Co. announced that $1 a bushel would be paid for corn, provided that the medium of exchange should be the implements made by the harvester corporation. An Iowa mule raiser goes the harvester's trust one better, and offers to take corn at $2 a bushel in exchange for "mules, jacks or jennies." This agricultural gambler also announces that if the implement company will raise his bid a quarter he will trail along and make it $2.50 in mule meat on the hoof. Iowa farmers and their brothers in the corn belt now have an opportunity to add to their live stock and implement supply without putting up a cent in real money.

The Worst Story I heard today was told to me by Edward Clifford, Attorney-at-law. (No, excuse me, he calls himself Counselor-at-law.) He is of Washington, D. C. He is a friend of the Dawes family and of Ex-Congressman Gillette, who has gone from bad to worse, or from speaking to listening. He wanted me to go out to dinner while in Washington with a bunch of them. But, my goodness, I got my reputation to uphold. I don't want scandal reaching me at this late date. This Bird Clifford had what I think is one of the best recruiting stories I ever heard, and there has been a million.

A fellow along about 30 was trying every way in the world to keep from going to war. He was unmarried, and finally the draft came, and he got more scared. He heard about these conscientious objectors, so he found out all about it, and read up on it and what they claimed about their religion, that war was all wrong, and he got the whole thing down pat. He came before the Recruiting officer and did his stuff. He even preached it. "Yes," he cried, lifting his eyes to the heavens, "in 1906 I was born again. I saw the light of a new life. I was born again in May, 1906; glory be to God!"

The Recruiting officer remarked, "Well, in that case would you have any objection to joining the Boy Scouts?"

Long Manuscripts.
 Atchison Globe: Go into any newspaper office and you'll find that the manuscripts in the waste baskets are long manuscripts.

New York's Wild West.
 New York Evening World: References to the bandit holdups in New York city as "Wild West" performances should be discouraged. The "Wild West" in its wildest days and its wildest sections never knew anything so wild.

Ghosts the Vogue.
 Brooklyn Eagle: The 1925 Christmas pantomimes in England had no Pucks and no Ariels. Fairies have gone out of fashion since the world war. Ghosts are the pet superstition.

Keys to Boston.
 Philadelphia Inquirer: Mayor Nichols, of Boston, says that when the present stock of keys given to honored visitors is gone he will order no more. How does Boston look up at night, anyway?

Crashing Art.
 New York Times: Alexis Roland Beurol broke a window in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, near midnight, in an attempt to enter that admirable institution. He was arrested promptly, and in justification of his conduct, protested indignantly that as the museum was a free institution in free America, he had a right to enter it at any hour he found convenient. And then he was carried off to Bellevue and put in the psychopathic ward to have his mind examined!

The Public Has Won.
 New York Herald-Tribune: With mid-January here, there is no longer any question that, despite the contempt displayed by both sides toward its interest in the controversy, the real victor has been the public. The latter, educated through many campaigns in the use of substitutes for hard coal, has at last called the annual bluff of the anthracite industry. The consumers are the victors by their own resourcefulness. They owe thanks to Mr. Lewis or the operators. When and if the industry regains a decent regard for its public responsibilities, anthracite may once more return to its function as a convenience. It was never a necessity. The public's victory is based on a complete realization of this fact, a realization that will never be forgotten.

Public Against Lewis.
 New York World: The strike goes on, but it will not go on under the same conditions as before. Public opinion has veered sharply in favor of the operators. They can count upon a growing weight of sentiment behind their final offers. Public opinion also feels more convinced than ever that legislation along the lines laid down by the Federal coal commission must ultimately be passed. But of most immediate importance is the question whether the anthracite miners will rally to continue the fight for Mr. Lewis' unreasonable demands. These miners had grievances that genuinely needed redress. A heavy proportion of them are underpaid, re-

The Priesthood of the Press

By GLENN FRANK

EVERY year thousands of young Americans toy with the idea of trying their fortunes in journalism as a career. I want to devote this essay to talking to these young men and young women about journalism as a possible career. I have had at least a limited experience in both the amateur journalism of college days and the professional journalism of after-college days.

Out of my experience as an amateur journalist, I can tell you that it is not wise to tamper with journalism in your youth unless you want it to haunt you for the rest of your days. The smell of printers' ink is seductive. There is a drug-like something about journalism. It is habit forming. Once the siren clatter of typewriter and printing press has sounded in your ears, you will not be happy until you have discovered by experience that you can or cannot find a satisfactory career in journalism.

No words of mine can adequately describe the durable satisfactions that journalism brings to the man who is fitted for it by talent and by training.

Journalism is a sort of secular priesthood in which a man may deal directly with the mind and spirit of his time.

Don't allow anyone to convince you that journalism must be a cheap or a shoddy thing because it deals with the hasty happenings of the day. Don't fall into the shallow snobbery that the man of letters sometimes displays toward the man of journalism.

Journalism is not cheap and shoddy save in the hands of cheap and shoddy journalists. To the job of reporting for the yellowest of the yellow press you can bring the scholar's culture, the scientist's accuracy, and the poet's beauty, provided only that you achieve a writing technique that makes what you write clear, and simple, and intelligible to the man in the street. And making things intelligible to the man in the street does not mean writing down to him; it means becoming a better writer.

There is nothing shoddy about making intelligence intelligible. Much that passes for deep thought is only muddy writing. There is no reason why culture should speak a private language that only the initiated can understand. There is no reason why accuracy should be unreadable. There is no reason why beauty should speak a foreign tongue. The more you can bring to journalism the better, provided you meet journalism's challenge to simplicity and clearness.

If you rise above the ranks in journalism, you will find yourself in the most fascinating, the most challenging, the most varied, the most satisfying career that modern life has to offer.

If you stay forever in the ranks of the routinizers of journalism, you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you will exert a more effective influence upon the life of your time than any other routinizer in any other profession. When you stop to think how many people never read beyond the headlines and how much public opinion is made by headlines, you begin to realize the enormous influence exerted by the man who writes headlines. When you stop to think how many people never read anything save their daily paper, you begin to realize the national importance of accurate reporting.

With my eyes fully open to the hazards and the heartaches that go along with a journalistic career for those who never make a name for themselves in its ranks, I must still say that I do not know another profession in which a man can so nearly satisfy his thirst for adventure in an increasingly standardized world as in journalism.

ceiving less than $1,700 a year even with steady employment. They were justified in asking safer and better working conditions, and a full recognition of the union. Mr. Lewis has ruined a perfectly good case and thrust the union into a position that invites defeat. It will be strange if he is not called sharply to account for his stewardship.

Measuring Moonbeams.
 Detroit News: The most delicate measuring instrument, one that will register the drum of a moonbeam, will be used by Columbia university in a new experiment to test the Einstein theory. The device is the invention of Prof. Ralph C. Hartsough. The Hartsough instrument is built so that the change in weight of one four-trillionth of an ounce on either scale displaced wave lengths or light in such a way that the change is recorded by the shifting of a shadow.

The purpose of the experiment will be to discover whether gravity acts instantaneously or whether it merely travels with the speed of light. The Einstein theory requires that gravitational impulses should travel at the rate of 180,300 miles a second, which is the velocity of light.

Some astronomers, however, hold that gravitational impulses have an infinite velocity—that is to say, they act over boundless space with no loss of time whatsoever.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Criticizes Pictures.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am a country minister of the gospel situated not far from Washington in one of the old historic parishes of Virginia. I have been a regular subscriber to your paper and have been helped a great deal by it in many, many ways. I am especially interested in the pictures appearing daily on the last page and it is in regard to them that I am taking the liberty of writing to you.

To put it mildly, it seems an outrage to common decency to print pictures such as sometimes appear there, and I as a young man not yet 30 years old I feel it my duty to uncompromisingly protest against the pictures of women and girls so scantily clad. This is a very vital thing, sir.

It is unfair to our boys and girls, too, to have such things flaunted before their eyes. We owe them a great deal and it is our special duty to see that their finer senses are protected and developed.

Therefore, I repeat my request and earnestly and prayerfully urge that you will do all in your power to keep such pictures in the background if you can not keep them out entirely.

Airplane Devices.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Navy Department has been very profuse in its allegations that the catapult for launching aircraft is an innovation all its own. In 1914 the writer planned a complete air-mail and express service to operate between New York and Chicago, and a catapult launching device was planned as a component part of the equipment of each of the four landing fields. This service was not started because of the inability to secure the necessary airplane equipment. I was asked by one of the aeronautical journals at that time to permit them to publish the complete details of the project as well as the details of the catapult, but declined in view of the fact that this was a private venture of certain individuals and not a stock-selling proposition.

The Navy Department claims that this device puts the United States ahead of other nations as regards air units with the fleet. Two nations have a system for use on airplane carriers and capital ships which is undoubtedly of much more importance than the catapult launching device. This is a system on a new basis which I will refer to as a "retarding gear," though it is far from that. This system makes it possible for planes to land with ease on inconceivably small restricted spaces. This method, with its attendant devices, has no resemblance to the orthodox retarding gear, being based on entirely new principles. This system will be of great value not only to the ships of the line but to the new aircraft carriers and the combination aircraft carriers and battle cruisers, and certainly is of considerably more importance than the catapult.

CHILDREN WILL UNSEAL SEIZED MAIL OF 1812

Letters, Taken From British Ships, to Be Opened by Essay Contest Winners.

TO SAVE "OLD IRONSIDES"

Certain school children of the United States will be designated to open letters and documents which have been kept sealed at the Navy Department since their capture more than 113 years ago by American privateers from British frigates. If plans now being formulated are carried out.

Secretary Wilbur, probably the first Secretary of the Navy who has delivered into these precious archives, disclosed this contemplated plan yesterday. It will be utilized in connection with the project of saving the U. S. S. Constitution, of "Old Ironsides," by subscriptions by school children of the nation.

Although details have not been worked out it is planned to have certain districts set off throughout the country. The child, boy or girl, in each of these that writes the best essay on the Constitution would have the privilege of opening one of the few letters. Of course, the child would not be allowed to keep the document, but opening it he or she would have every thrill experienced by pirates of old in crashing in treasure chests.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy T. Douglas Robinson asked that he might be allowed to open one of the letters yesterday because it was addressed to a Col. Douglass in the Dutch West Indies. He was allowed this privilege because it was thought some relationship might be traced. It was found that the letter spoke familiarly of Wellington and other prominent figures and bore the signature of Mark M. Dickens. It was in a franked official envelope.

One packet of papers were captured from the British frigate Java, but from what ship the others were captured is not known.

E. S. Jordan to Speak At Auto Show Dinner

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, N. Y., Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Fifteen hundred men including all the leaders of the automobile, airplane and allied industries will assemble at the annual dinner of the Society of Automotive Engineers at the Astor tomorrow night when Edward S. Jordan, of Cleveland, will speak on the subject, "Will Germany Beat Ford to the Production of Three Cent Aluminum and So Make the World Pay for the War." Jordan will be introduced by Charles Kettering, inventor of the self-starter and vice president of General Motors Co.

This is the biggest dinner of the New York automobile show. Mr. Jordan's talk will be broadcast over station WJY at 9:50 p. m.

Walska Off to Paris To Appear in Opera

New York, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Madame Ganna Walska, wife of Harold P. McCormick, of Chicago, was host at a farewell tea today, prior to sailing Saturday, with Mr. McCormick for Paris, where she will appear in "Madame Butterfly" in the spring.

Since she essayed the role of Cho Cho San in Nice, France, a year ago, Mme. Walska has been studying Japanese technique here with Michio Ito, Japanese dancer. Neither Mr. McCormick nor his wife would comment on her plans, but it was said Mme. Walska would probably appear in the Theater Des Champs Elysees in Paris.

Girls Decide $5.00 Limit For Graduation Dress

Columbia Junior High Students to Symbolize Rainbow at Exercises January 28—Cost Rivalry Is Banned.

Thirty girl graduates of Columbia Junior High school have agreed to be graduated as a unit and not as 30 girl competitors in splendor at the mid-year commencement exercises, January 28.

Clad in voile dresses, none of which is to cost more than $5, they have agreed to symbolize the rainbow with the mythical pot of gold at its end. The girls have decided what color dress each shall wear and on the stage they will be grouped in a rainbow harmony.

Determination that the graduation should not be made a competition in spending was expressed recently by Miss Alice Deal, principal of the school. She set $5 as the limit any graduation dress might cost. Dissatisfaction among the pupils gave way quickly to enthusiasm, and under the direction of Mrs. Nannette White, teacher of domestic art, they set about making their graduation dresses.

The girls range in age from 13 to 16 years. The dresses will be below the knees. They will have sleeves, a fairly tight bodice and a full skirt.

They will be trimmed with rosettes of voile and with ribbons. All will wear black shoes to avoid the extra expense of shoes to match the color of their dresses.

The plan was praised by Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent in charge of high schools.

"It costs parents enough nowadays to send children through school without having graduation exercises turned into a competition of spending," Mr. Kramer declared. "I think the same thing could be done in every high and junior high school in the city. There need be no sacrifice of beauty."

"The children," he added, "would be willing enough to fall in with such a plan. Its further development depends on parents and whether they are willing to be reasonable or insist on their right to a foolish effort to set their daughters apart from their schoolmates by reason of their clothes."

The boys who will graduate from the Columbia school this month will wear their usual suits, with a clean collar and polished shoes.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy T. Douglas Robinson asked that he might be allowed to open one of the letters yesterday because it was addressed to a Col. Douglass in the Dutch West Indies. He was allowed this privilege because it was thought some relationship might be traced. It was found that the letter spoke familiarly of Wellington and other prominent figures and bore the signature of Mark M. Dickens. It was in a franked official envelope.

NEW TAX RATE YIELDS BIG GAIN FOR DISTRICT

Collections for the Half Year
Increase $3,000,000, C. M.
Towers Reports.

DELINQUENT LIST SOON

The new tax rate increased the District's revenue from taxation for the first half of the current fiscal year by $2,000,000.

Chatham M. Towers, collector of taxes, announced yesterday that in November, 1925, collections amounted to $3,473,264.45, and in December, $3,679,293.37, a total of $9,152,473.82. In the same months in 1924 collections totaled $2,145,912.01 for November and $4,028,592.38 for December, a total of $6,174,504.39.

For the fiscal year 1924-25 the tax rate was $1.40 per $100 of valuation. This year it is $1.70.

Delinquent tax lists are now being made up, according to Mr. Towers. Property upon which taxes have not been paid will be advertised for sale February 1 and will be sold in March. Those who do not pay before February 1 will not only be penalized 1 per cent additional on the sums due the District, but will have to pay the cost of advertising.

HELEN KELLER MAKES PLEA TO AID BLIND

Audience Stands as She Walks Across Stage to Speak;
Wears Coolidge Roses.

Addressing an audience of approximately 2,000 persons, Miss Helen Keller, deaf and blind prodigy, last night made an eloquent appeal for funds to assist the American Foundation for the Blind in a ten-minute speech at the Washington auditorium.

Described by Bishop James E. Freeman, who presided in the absence of Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, as a "Jeanne d'Arc of the Blind" and a "Modern Miracle," Miss Keller delivered a pathetic appeal that apparently went directly to the hearts of her hearers. There was an instant and generous response to her plea. As she advanced slowly across the stage to speak, the entire audience rose and stood silently for several minutes.

Although President and Mrs. Coolidge were unable to attend, they sent from the White House a large bouquet of flowers, which was carried by Miss Keller.

$100 Cuts Are Made In Studebaker Prices

Price reductions on seven closed models were announced yesterday by the Studebaker Corporation of America. The reduction was $100 on each of the following models: Standard six sedan, wool trim; standard six sedan, mohair trim; big six sedan, five-passenger, big six sedan, seven-passenger, big six brougham, big six berline and big six club coupe.

Prices, under the new schedule, range from $1,295 for the first named to $2,225 for the big six berline. The reductions in price, the company said, were not achieved by any change in the quality of their automobiles.

Commissioner Fenning said he had heard no criticism of the police for failure to raid bootleggers in the southeast.

"No report has come to me on this subject," said Mr. Fenning. "If citizens have complaints they should make them to the commissioners or to the police."

Maj. Edwin B. Hesse also said he had heard nothing of failure by the police of the Fifth precinct to enforce the law.

GREATER LIFE SEEN IN 1926 AUTO MODELS

Experts Make Observation at New York Motordrom
Exhibition.

New York, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—One of the greatest improvements in the 1926 automobile is the increased life that has been built into it, experts have agreed after viewing the glistering creations of motordrom on display at the annual motor show in the Grand central palace. They declare that the 1926 models will far outlive their predecessors, but that this will not be until the new cars have been in service a year.

The new creations will run from 10,000 to 20,000 miles without grinding the valves, adjustment of bearings or fitting of new rings, the experts believe.

In some instances spring bolts and spring-bolt lubrication are eliminated by use of rubberized fabric spring shackles.

A profusion of lacquer finishes, in various hues, give the finishing touches to the new motor creations.

7 FIRE UNITS BATTLE SPRING ROAD BLAZE

Fire of unknown origin in the basement of the home of Luigi Principe, 912 Spring road northwest, last night wrecked the basement and first floor before five engine and two truck companies extinguished the blaze. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

The blaze was discovered by Principe shortly after his family had eaten their evening meal. The family fled to the street. Principe's elderly mother, Mrs. L. Principe, became hysterical and was taken to a neighbor's home and revived. Traffic for four blocks was rerouted by policemen. After almost an hour's work the blaze was extinguished.

A short circuit in the automobile of August L. Creecy, which was parked in front of his home, 925 Fifteenth street northwest, did damage estimated at $450.

WIDENING OF BENNING ROAD TO BE SOUGHT

Citizens' Group Charges Area
Slighted in Allocation of Improvements.

The District commissioners will be asked to order the immediate widening and improvement of Benning road northeast, from Fifteenth street northeast, to the District line by the Benning Citizens association, under a resolution passed at a meeting last night of the organization at the home of its president, Andrew L. Lofler, Benning, D. C.

Members of the association charged that this section of Washington has been discriminated against in the last few years in the allocation of improvements. Benning road, it was declared, is one of the most important boulevards in the city, and its present width is insufficient to care for the heavy demands placed upon it.

The Gasque school board bill was opposed unanimously in a resolution adopted. Warner Stutler, former president of the association, declared the elections of the school board would result in a farce if the bill were passed.

Southeast Citizens Renew Fire Apparatus Charge

Declaring that the only new fire apparatus in the Southeast is in No. 18 engine house, the Southeast Business Men's association last night took exception to the attempt of fire department officials to excuse the condition of fire apparatus on lack of appropriations, and charged that "rank discrimination" had been practiced against that section of the city.

Members expressed hope that congress would take compassion on the condition of the southeast regarding fire apparatus, and would afford some means of relief.

The petition for the initiation of a two-hour parking limit between Second and Fourth streets and Sixth and Seventh streets was changed by vote to Third and Fourth streets and will be presented to Director of Traffic Eldridge as changed.

Final arrangement was made for the annual banquet at the Lee House January 26. J. E. Shelton is chairman of the entertainment committee.

RABBI GROSSMAN TO SPEAK.

Rabbi Jacob Grossman, of New York, will occupy the pulpit of Sixth Street synagogue tomorrow night in the absence of Rabbi Schwefel, who will speak in Baltimore at the request of the United Synagogue of America.

Rabbi Grossman is the educational director of the United Synagogue, representing 500 organizations throughout the United States and Canada, and was formerly director of the Educational Alliance in New York.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creosolene, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creosolene is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agents for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creosolene contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

The emulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, whooping cough, croup, and all other respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creosolene Company, Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

DRINK WATER FREELY
IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Also Take Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

FOREIGN AID ASKED BY JUGOSLAV KING; DEBT BODY ARRIVES

Obligation to U. S. Regarded as Affair of Honor, Says
Alexander.

SACRIFICES ARE CITED SEEKING CONSIDERATION

Taxes 35 Per Cent of Income;
Tenth of the Population
Incapacitated.

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Jan. 13 (By the Associated Press).—Coincidental with the arrival of the Yugoslav debt funding mission in the United States today, King Alexander gave an exclusive statement to the Associated Press, in which he declared he regarded the debt to America as one of honor, to be settled on that basis up to the limit of the country's resources.

"At the end of the war, which brought realization of the ideal of our people to live united as an independent state," he said, "our government was faced with ever-growing difficulties, of which those of a financial order took precedence. Considerable credits, amounting to several billions of dinars, had to be devoted to reconstruction of the railroads and restoration of the rolling stocks, destroyed during the war.

"The economic situation of the country bore an unfavorable aspect. The railroad system, public utilities, buildings, bridges and practically all state-owned material had been devastated. Yet foreign financial aid was not forthcoming and the reparation problem suffered a regrettable delay. It became necessary to proceed by our own limited means to the restoration of the devastated regions.

Inflation Made Necessary.
"Such a state of affairs necessitated a policy of monetary inflation, which, growing constantly, constituted a grave menace to the public credit and paralyzed the economic life of the country. Budget deficits reaching several billions were filled by the incessant issue of new bank notes.

"Consequently, especially since 1923, has brought financial stabilization to the country. We have accepted every sacrifice. Taxes have reached 35 per cent of the total revenues of the state. "Agricultural production—on the basis of our economic situation—is solidly restored. Agrarian reforms now in the course of realization have solved the great national and economic problem, which guarantees the solid and specific development of our state."

Emphasizing the need for foreign capital, he said: "It is evident that the process of the development of our country would be greatly accelerated were we sustained by the richer countries, which could in all security invest their capital in our production, either directly or by assisting us in the work of building new railroads, bridges and other public utilities constituting a necessary condition to the health of our economic life.

Want Credit for Sacrifices.
"We note with satisfaction that the confidence of the foreign nations in the future of our country increases from day to day. The conviction that we are the principal peace factors in this part of Europe is taking root, as the countries realize that our foreign policy is animated by pacific conceptions and directed toward maintenance of cordial relations with our neighbors.

"Our keenest desire is to arrive at settlement of our war debts, which we consider a matter of honor. "We are, however, convinced that, when such settlement comes, account will be taken of the sacrifices we have been called upon to make, the devastation which we have been forced to restore, and the heavy charges which we are now supporting in order to supply a living for our invalids and wounded, our population."

New York, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Senator Henry V. Berenger, poet, novelist and statesman, arrived on the Paris today to succeed Emile Doeschner, as French Ambassador to the United States.

Senator Berenger, accompanied by his wife, was met at quarantine by Maxime Mongere, French consul general in New York; Robert Goyet, financial attaché of the French embassy, and Louis de Sartiges, counselor of the embassy.

It was his second arrival in this country within recent months, as he was a member of the French debt commission led by Joseph Caillaux. Senator Berenger declined to discuss political questions until his credentials have been presented to Secretary of State Kellogg and President Coolidge, but delivered a prepared statement to newspapermen, expressing faith in the friendship of the United States and France, and talked fluently of his career as poet and novelist before he became a statesman.

Mme. Berenger conducted a salon in Paris which was considered one of the most important rendezvous for the younger intellectual leaders of the French capital. She said today she plans for entertaining in Washington were held in abeyance until she becomes more familiar with America.

New York, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—An encyclical letter declaring that the true church is "the church of the underworld," condemning all denominations for "theological bickerings," at a time when society needs Christian leadership, and extending greetings "to the criminals and the dispossessed of the world," was sent out today by the synod of the Old Catholic Church.

The letter was adopted by the synod at the suggestion of Bishop William Montgomery Brown, who is in New York seeking reinstatement as a bishop in the Protestant Episcopal Church, from which he was deposed for alleged heretical teachings. Bishop Brown also is bishop in the Old Catholic Church.

"We greet the criminals of America," the letter says, "the convicts, toward whom, as a society, we have dealt in anger and in a spirit of fraternal love; thieves, gunmen, crooks and other men and women of the underworld, who may still be at large and following the arts of hate and fear because we, their brothers and sisters, failed to warm their lives with the fires of fraternity and love."

Pittsburgh, Jan. 13.—Gowned in the latest mode and hooded as becomes the ultrafashionable flapper, four University of Pittsburgh students gazed on Edna Wallace Hopper, the 62-year-old perennial beauty, at the Aldine theater today as she revealed the methods she used in retaining her beauty.

However, two of the pseudo girls viewed only a part of Miss Hopper's program. Their voices, a trifle on the basso side, betrayed them, and both were rudely dragged from the theater a few moments after the former comic opera star had finished her bath in view of the audience.

After the two students, who gave their names as George Wilson and Frank Armstrong, each 24 years old, members of the Alpha Omega society, had been taken to the Allegheny police station, they laughingly told the police their story.

"Well, you got us boys, but only two. Back there in the theater are two other students of the male persuasion, and we're here to bet you they won't be caught."

Commission Refers Trouble to Special Court in Arica for Trial.

GEN. LASSITER ON WAY TO SUCCEED PERSHING

Report That Uruguay Will Be Invited to Help Settle Dispute Doubted.

Arica, Chile, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—The Tacna-Arica plebiscitary commission has ordered last Wednesday's disturbances at Tacna referred to a special plebiscitary court for investigation and trial.

It also directed that all dates thus far fixed for plebiscitary events be postponed 15 days, thus bringing the plebiscite date to April 30.

The election law committee was ordered to give preference to the discussion and adoption of penalties in addition to those sanctioned in the existing law for offenses relating to registration and voting.

Manuel Freyre y Santander, chief Peruvian delegate, gave a list of attacks, which he said had been committed by Chileans against Peruvians since the promulgation of the election guarantees. These ranged, he said, from threats by police agents and civic organizations to actual violence and expulsions.

Police Specially Warned.
He alleged that the Chilean police were purposely warned of the expected arrival of the detachment from a Peruvian ship at Tacna last Wednesday, so as to prevent the very trouble which followed. During the clash, he said, 32 Peruvians were wounded. The Chilean spokesman, Agustin Edwards, said his government "can not condemn in terms strong enough the events which occurred at Tacna."

He denied connivance on the part of the Chilean authorities in the province, but said he was ready to have the matter fully investigated and all the guilty condemned, "since no plebiscite is possible as long as law and order and the personal safety that should prevail in the territory are violated in this manner."

No Invitation to Uruguay.
Buenos Aires, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—The Montevideo correspondent of La Critica today transmits an interview with Foreign Minister Carlos Blanco de Uruguay, in which he quotes the foreign minister as saying that no official advice has been received which would permit the government to believe that Uruguay would be invited to extend its good offices toward a solution of the Tacna-Arica controversy.

Lima, Peru, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—One bright side to the Tacna-Arica plebiscite problem is revealed today by El Comercio, Peru's foremost newspaper.

A Lima brewery, says El Comercio, in order to lighten the burdens of the Peruvian interstate commerce presented it with 720 bottles of beer with the customary Peruvian "kick" in it. The beer was especially brewed for the consumption of the delaying the shipment was a letter from the brewery expressing profound pleasure at thus being able to subscribe to the patriotic duty which the delegation was discharging at Arica.

Victory for Shepherd, but Question of Influence
Is Not Passed On.

Chicago, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—The will of young William Nelson McClintock, millionaire orphan, leaving his $1,000,000 estate to his foster father, William Darling Shepherd, today was admitted to probate, although the principal point at issue was not decided.

Contestants, including Miss Isabelle Zepke, McClintock's fiancée and eight cousins of McClintock, charged that undue influence had been used by Shepherd in inducing McClintock to make the will. On this point Judge Kichkan Scanlan in the circuit court said there could be no ruling in the probate of the instrument, pointing out that fraud, forgery and compulsion are the only causes to bar a will from probate.

White Shepherd, who last summer was acquitted of a charge of murdering McClintock, won a victory today in the circuit here after the probate court had refused to accept the will for probate, the attorneys for the contestants said that an appeal will be taken direct to the supreme court at once.

NEW START IS MADE BY MEXICO ON DEBT

New York, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Formal announcement that fresh start was being made toward carrying out the Mexican debt agreement involving that country's $500,000,000 of external obligations with several hundred millions of accumulated interest was made today by the international committee of bankers on Mexico, which recommended that all bondholders accept modifications arranged by the committee with Finance Minister A. J. Panf last October.

Simultaneous announcements in London, Paris and Mexico City signified the restoration of the plan in its modified form. It is expected that funds which are now being received by the bankers will be permitted to accumulate for a three or six months' period and then distributed to the bondholders.

SEVENTH MAN NOW ILL

Special to The Washington Post.
Annapolis, Md., Jan. 13.—That the poisoned whisky which killed five persons and caused the serious illness of a sixth in the last few days was purchased in Annapolis was discovered today as the result of an investigation being made by State Attorney A. Theodore Brady, with the aid of a special agent, police and others. The State's attorney declared he had information as to the identity of the person from whom the death-dealing drink was purchased, and expected that an arrest would be made tomorrow.

Until today, Mr. Brady said, he had been hampered in his investigation because of the sudden death of the sixth victim, who drank the stuff while the sixth, Charles (Buck) Thompson, a painter, had become blind and temporarily speechless.

Thompson, it is said, today told the special investigator that the liquor he drank had been procured for him by his nephew, and the latter, in turn, gave the name of the person from whom he purchased it. The name of the alleged seller is being withheld by the State's attorney, who is continuing the inquiry.

It also was learned today that Nelson Owens, the young farmer of Mayo, South River, who died, bought liquor from the same person as did Thompson's nephew. Owens, according to his friends, was not a "drinking man," but had purchased a supply of liquor for some colored friends on South River and had merely sampled it.

This liquor is said to have gotten into the hands of colored employees of the Federal court who were paid within an hour. James Green, colored, of the Third district, today became a patient at Emergency hospital. He is suffering from poisoning attributed to liquor.

WOODLOCK BELIEVED FACING STERN FIGHT

Appointee Goes Before I. C. C.
Committee Again Today;
Taylor Confirmed.

(By the Associated Press.)
The battlefront over President Coolidge's nominations to the Interstate Commerce Commission was reduced by half yesterday with the confirmation by the Senate of the appointment of Richard V. Taylor, of Alabama.

Senator Blease, Democrat, South Carolina, alone held out against Mr. Taylor, but the nomination of Thomas F. Woodlock, of New York, who is serving under a recess appointment, continued to face a stiffer opposition. He appeared before the Senate interstate commerce committee yesterday for questioning by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, and will appear again today. Some members predicted that the Taylor nomination was confirmed by the Senate of the interstate commerce committee, which the Senate yesterday confirmed by a vote of 75 to 15.

Coming before the Senate with the unanimous endorsement of the interstate commerce committee, Taylor's nomination was confirmed without a roll call and after only a brief address by Senator Blease. It was stated that this Senator was the only one to vote in the negative on the viva voce vote.

VATICAN ORGAN PRAISES FASCIST CHURCH MOVE

Article, Published Tuesday,
Totally Misunderstood,
It Is Stated.

HOPE FOR PEACE IS HELD

Rome, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Osservatore Romano, organ of the Vatican, published an article today apparently withdrawing from the position taken in its article of yesterday which criticized the fascist government's proposed ecclesiastical reform bill. The paper says that yesterday's article, which was interpreted as throwing cold water on Premier Mussolini's plans for healing the historic breach between the church and the Italian state, has been completely misunderstood both in letter and spirit.

There was no intention, the paper says today, to affirm that the proposed fascist reforms "contained no improvement on the ecclesiastical legislation imposed upon the church by anticlerical liberalism."

The paper denies that it failed to recognize a spirit free from the prejudice of liberalism inspiring the proposed reform. It says it merely desired to point out that the work of the government committee framing the reforms was "far from what could be called perfect."

The Vatican organ adds that the extremely grave prejudicial fact of the condition of the Holy See—referring to the law of guarantees—persists, and that the reform work now in hand is being carried out by the Italian government without other cooperation.

The Osservatore Romano denies the accusation made by the Fascist Tribune that Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, has created a popular party, which is Catholic and antifascist, asserting that this party was created spontaneously in order to defend Christian principles against liberalism.

The article's insistence upon liberalism as the archenemy of the Holy See is interpreted in fascist circles as a hopeful sign for an early rapprochement, in spite of the conservative wording of the article, which is attributable to the necessity for dignity and restraint in a newspaper speaking for the Pope.

Mrs. Browning Posed As Wife, She Admits

New York, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Mrs. Nellie Adele Browning, divorced wife of Edward W. Browning, wealthy real estate dealer, who gained wide notice last year through his adoption of Mary Louise Spas, today pleaded guilty in the Federal court to the indictment charging her with obtaining a passport in 1922 by falsely representing herself as the wife of Harry J. Wolcher, a salesman.

Federal Judge Thatcher directed Mrs. Browning to return for sentence next Wednesday morning. The maximum penalty is five years' imprisonment and $2,000 fine. She pleaded not guilty, and will go on trial Monday.

Two to Die by Gas At Nevada Prison

Carson City, Nev., Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—Two Nevada slayers must die by lethal gas as a result of a decision of the State supreme court yesterday, which sustained their sentences of death.

The condemned men are Stanko Jukich and Guadalupe Acosta. Both are in death cells at the Nevada State prison.

Jukich shot and killed Jennie Madek, 16-year-old girl of Ruth, Nev., a year ago. He said he had a contract with the girl's parents whereby she was to marry him. He avers he shot the girl when the bargain was canceled. Acosta killed Deputy Sheriff Charles Lewis, of Elko, when he tried to arrest Acosta for being drunk.

Quickly The New Pleasant Way

Millions now taking Cod Liver Oil the new modern way in sugar coated Tablets.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamins in Cod Liver Oil to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

But nobody wants to take the ill-smelling, horrible tasting stomach upsetting oil itself, so nowadays, up to date medical men are ordering a tablet of Cod Liver Oil and it surely has proven a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after a severe illness and especially after the Grippe or a stubborn cough or cold.

Ask Peoples Drug Stores or any druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy. Skinny men and women take them to speed up put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for the purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist is authorized to return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—60 tablets—60 cents—Adv.

Coming to the Local Playhouses

NATIONAL

Marc Connelly's new comedy, "The Wisdom Tooth," which comes to the National theater next week under the sponsorship of John Golden as producer and Winchell Smith as stage director is as novel and distinctive as "Bogart on Horseback," which Washington playgoers saw two years ago this month just previous to its New York opening. "The Beggar" was written by Mr. Connelly, in collaboration with George S. Kaufman, and it followed three other comedy successes by the same pair—"Merton of the Movies," "Dulcy" and "To the Ladies."

This season Mr. Connelly and Mr. Kaufman have gone separate ways as single-handed authors. Mr. Kaufman has already scored with "The Butter and Egg Man" at the Longacre theater, New York, and considering that Mr. Connelly is having the help of Winchell Smith in staging "The Wisdom Tooth," he is expected to duplicate the individual success of his former writing partner.

"The Wisdom Tooth" is written in fanciful mood, boasts of eight scenes and will be presented by a large cast, with Thomas Mitchell, Mary Phillips, Helen Chandler and Malcolm Williams in important roles. The usual matinee are announced for Wednesday and Saturday.

METROPOLITAN

At Crandall's Metropolitan theater, beginning Sunday afternoon at 3, the feature will be First National's film version of the serial story told by millions, "Joanna," with Dorothy Mackall in the name part, Jack Mulhall opposite and the two supported by such celebrities as George Fawcett, Paul Nicholson, Dolores Del Rio, Edward Davis, John T. Murray and Rita Carewe. The companion attraction will be a brief comedy starring Lupino Lane, famous English humorist, "The Fighting Dude." A new issue of the Metropolitan World Survey will be among the subsidiary attractions and a special musical program will be provided by the Metropolitan Symphony, under the conductorship of Daniel Bresskin.

"Joanna" relates the story of a working girl who suddenly is given $1,000,000 to do with as she pleased, the only stipulation being that she make no inquiries as to the source of her wealth. She spent it all gaily in about three years, but still was instrumental in winning the wager that proved to have been the foundation of her sudden affluence. A midnight bathing party on an exclusive private beach affords the chance for a particularly bizarre moment.

Lupino Lane, star of the abbreviated comedy that will serve as chief auxiliary feature, combines many unusual attributes. He is, first of all, a real comedian, with an unerring sense of comedy values. To this he adds all of the agility of a trained gymnast and acrobat and, again, to these endowments he adds the sure touch of a gentleman in situations requiring finesse.

TIVOLI

Richard Dix will be the pictured star at Crandall's Tivoli theater the first two days of next week in Paramount's film version of Zane Grey's story of "The Vanishing American." The auxiliary attraction will be one of Paul Terry's new Aesop Fables, and the bill will be further augmented by abbreviated camera subjects and special pipe-organ music.

On Tuesday and Wednesday of next week the Tivoli will present Colleen Moore in First National's camera rendition of Israel Zangwill's up-to-the-minute novel of "We Moderns." The comedy will be a two-reel Christie, "Slippery Feet," starring Bobby Vernon, and the program will be further supplemented by a new release of the Pathe Review.

Rudolph Valentino, supported by Nita Naldi, will occupy the silver sheet at the Tivoli on Thursday and Friday of next week in Paramount's camera version of Martin Brown's successful New York stage hit, "Cobra." Johnny Arthur will be responsible for the laughter in "Cleaning Up."

On Saturday only of next week Monte Blue will be seen at the Tivoli in the foremost roles of the Warner Brothers' production of "Hogan's Alley." The comedy will be "Love and Lions," and the bill will be further rounded out by "The Scarlet Streak," No. 3.

CENTRAL

"Before Midnight," the major feature of the bill to be presented at Crandall's Central theater the first two days of next week has as its star one of the most virile of the screen's rugged actors in William Russell, remembered for an especially fine performance in support of Blanche Sweet and George Marion in "Anna Christie." The comedy for the first bill of the week will be supplied by "Our Gang" in "Good Cheer" and other subsidiary features will embrace the "Screen Snapshots" and "Topics of the Day."

Lon Chaney will succeed to the possession of the Central's silver sheet on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week in Universal's weird, wild and majestic production of "The Phantom of the Opera."

"We Moderns," First National's picture of the post-war era, starring Colleen Moore, will be the principal offering at the Central on Thursday and Friday of next week. The comedy will be "Strong For Love" and an added attraction will be furnished by Hope Hampton in "Paris Fashions in Color."

On Saturday only the Central will present another action-drama in Universal's production of "Sporting Life," starring Bert Lytell.

POLI'S

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will present at Poli's theater commencing next Monday evening, "The Big Parade," presenting John Gilbert in the stellar role.

"The Big Parade" is King Vidor's picture of an original story by Laurence Stallings. On account of novel plot and handling, the subject has been much discussed in advance by the film-wise. Prominent in the epic is the story of three "modern musketeers," American buddies in France, enacted by John Gilbert, Karl Dane, and Tom O'Brien, while the love interest centers in the farmhouse girl Mollande, played by Renee Adoree, herself a Frenchwoman.

Accompanying the picture, a special musical score has been arranged by the orchestra, composed by David Mendoza and William Axt, which will be played by an augmented orchestra. Following the first showing, presentations are to be given twice daily including Sundays.

PALACE

Richard Dix turns to romantic comedy again for his latest stellar role—that of "Womanhandled," a romance of a native-born New Yorker, who found all pretty girls irresistible and even tried to turn cowboys because a pretty girl fancied him from the wide-open spaces. It opens a week's run at Loew's Palace Sunday.

"Womanhandled" is from a story by Arthur Train. Esther Ralston has been teamed with Mr. Dix as his leading woman. Others in the cast are Cora Williams, Olive Tell, and Edmund Breese.

Some of the richest travesty in months is revealed in the episodes where Dix, in his effort to become a real cowboy in the far West to please his girl, is forced to teach the cowboys to abandon their flivvers and take to horses again, which nearly precipitates a strike and does precipitate a stampede among the cattle which gives the hero a chance to make good at the last minute with the girl, who has come West and learned of his deception.

A Charlie Chase laugh-maker, "The Uneasy Three," the Pathe newsreel pictures, Palace magazine and Mr. Gannon's music will be further delightful features of a fascinating bill.

AMBASSADOR

Dorothy Mackall will be seen for the first time in Washington in the pivotal role of First National's filmization of "Joanna," the widely read serial story, at Crandall's Ambassador theater the first three days of next week, beginning Sunday afternoon at 3.

The supplementary feature offering will be a new Aesop Fable and the bill will be completed by short reels and special pipe organ accompaniment and solo intervals. On Wednesday and Thursday the Ambassador's screen will be dominated by Richard Dix in Paramount's filmization of Zane Grey's story of "The Vanishing American."

Eleanor Boardman and Conrad Nagel have the stellar roles in Elinor Glyn's story of "The Only Thing," produced by Metro-Goldwyn, which will be the Ambassador's feature on Friday only of next week. Earle Foxe will be the pictured comic in Booth Tarkington's "The Sky Jumper."

On Saturday only of next week Jack Holt and Billie Dove will be seen in the costlier parts of "The Ancient Highway," Paramount's screen version of the story of the same name by James Oliver Curwood. "Our Gang" comedy, "Hodge-Podge" and "The Green Archer," No. 2.

GAYETY

In response to numerous requests for a midnight show at the Gayety theater, Manager Ira J. La Motte announced a special midnight frolic this week on Friday night, beginning promptly at 11:30. All professionals appearing at the theaters in Washington are cordially invited to attend this performance of "Happy Hooligan," and the public is advised to secure seats as early as possible. This frolic will be exactly the same in performance as the regular 8:15 show. Next week's attraction, beginning with Sunday matinee, will be Slim Williams' "Happy Moments," garnished with a number of new faces headed by Lew White, a Hebrew character; Doc Dorman, a character funster; Walter McDowell, comedian; Allan McDonald, splendid straight man, and Floyd Halliday, snappy juvenile. The feminine leads stack up equally as good in the charming persons of the Misses Pauline Gloumar, sourette; Gladys Vaughn, prima donna; Lola A. Pullman, ingenue, and Mildred Steele, a dancer from Paris.

WARDMAN PARK

The Thomas Herbert Stock Co., playing "Farnish" this week at the Wardman Park theater, are in rehearsal now for that delightful comedy, "The Handy Man," by Fred Wall and Ralph Murphy, which they will produce next week.

"The Handy Man" is a wholesome, homey comedy of American country town characters with a New York flapper crook and a hard-boiled detective contrasted with great effect.

The lives of these typical small-town folks with their temptations, love affairs, joys and sorrows make up the story. The handy man, or carpenter, on the place straightens out all the tangles of the plot in a very amusing way and through his efforts the play is brought to a happy ending.

"The Handy Man" was successfully produced at the Thirty-ninth Street theater in New York with Tim Murphy in the title role, a part that will be played next week by Park Fennelly, leading man with the Thomas Herbert players.

BELASCO

Coming direct from a long successful engagement on Broadway, Houdini brings his versatile entertainment to the Belasco theater next Monday for a week's stand. This is Houdini's first visit to this city with his own company of 31 people and two carloads of scenery, gorgeous costumes and electrical effects.

Houdini's diversified program includes ancient and modern magic, new illusions, escapes and a "Vision of the Future Radio of 1950." The final act of the two hour and forty minute entertainment is Houdini's masterpiece, for which he says he has studied for 35 years, and is his startling expose of the fake spirit mediums. This includes slate-writing, ringing of bells and spirit message reading in full glare of electric lights—and then shows you how it is done.

The Washington "spook artists" better watch out for Houdini will get 'em.

RIALTO

Rudolph Schildkraut makes his bow to American pictures next week at the Rialto in "His People."

The story reveals the pride and joy, the suffering and disappointments of a typical Ghetto family. The patriarchal father, the patient, submissive mother and the two sons, one an ambitious student and the other a prizefighter. How the family finally achieved happiness after a series of mishaps is graphically and humorously depicted.

A championship prizefight forms one of the big scenes in the picture. The cast includes George Lewis, Arthur Lubin, Kate Price, Blanche McHaffey, Nat Carr and other well-known stage players, who add the weight of their dramatic experience to "His People," which has been hailed by dramatic experts as being an epic of humanism.

PRESIDENT

Only a few more days remain for those who have not availed themselves of an opportunity to see "Uncle Sam's Follies," the musical and dance revue, at the President theater.

The management expects to take care of capacity houses during the remainder of the week. Saturday matinee will be devoted largely to the soldiers of the hospitals and charitable institutions, but plenty of good seats are available for matinee idols. A special program will be arranged for the benefit of the many children who are expected.

The comedy, which was the only feature that local critics found fault with last week, has been changed materially and is now one of the outstanding features. Lovers of dancing will have plenty of opportunity to see anything of the caliber that is offered by Uncle Sam's thespians. And the new song hits "put over" by those responsible for them are getting a great hand.

STRAND

The bill of attractions at the Strand theater next week features the Guy and Pearl Magvey Revue, an assemblage of Broadway favorites, in a beautifully mounted and fascinating number entitled "Dance Stories," with the Melvin sisters and Frank and Ted Deel. Shirley McAllister and Dick Lancaster will tickle your funnybone with their song and dance skit entitled "Playing Golf," with Sam Gore. Other numbers on the vaudeville program include Jack Fulton and Peggy Parker in an entertaining novelty, "Diversion a La Carte," by Paul Gerard Smith; John Irving Fisher in a hugely amusing comedy and song turn, "Song Stories and Melodies," and Dillon and Margerita in a thrilling and amazing exhibition of skill, "Sensational Equilibristic and Musical Novelty."

The feature photoplay will be Warner Bros. great love drama "Compromise," with Irene Rich heading a delightful cast, including Olive Brook, Louise Fazenda and others.

The usual short film features and orchestral numbers under the direction of Arthur J. Manvell will complete the program.

John McCormack at Auditorium. John McCormack, the famous Irish tenor, whose voice is known and loved around the world, will make the first evening concert appearance of his career locally when he is presented by Mrs. Wilson-Greene at the Washington auditorium next Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock as the fourth artist in Mrs. Wilson-Greene's series of evening concerts at the auditorium. The assisting artists will be Lauri Kennedy, cellist, and Edwin Schneider, pianist.

Mr. McCormack's program for his evening appearance next Saturday includes three of the Irish folk songs for which he is noted. They are "The Fanal Grove" (arranged by Hughes), "The Next Day" (arranged by Hughes), and "Kathleen Mavourneen" (Crouch).

Mr. McCormack's program will also include selections from Handel, Beethoven, Schumann, Schubert, and others.

Marriage of Figaro.

William Wade Hinchaw Co. will present Mozart's comic masterpiece, "The Marriage of Figaro," at the National theater today at 4:30.

This is the fifth offering by T. Arthur Smith Bureau in the Ten Star Series, which has established a standard of presenting most meritorious musical attractions.

The company appearing today is said to be of exceptional distinction, having sung the roles in the different opera houses of Europe. With same cast and production as given in New York and elsewhere with great success, it is confidently anticipated that Washington will confirm the verdict passed on it.

COLUMBIA

Rudolph Valentino is scoring one of the outstanding photoplay successes of his career at Loew's Columbia this week in "The Eagle," his first United Artists' production, which started its premiere Washington engagement at the Columbia last Sunday afternoon. Although the attraction for next week at that playhouse has not been definitely announced, it is understood that Paramount's long-heralded production of "The American Venus," featuring Miss Fay Lamphier, will succeed "The Eagle" as the next Columbia attraction.

KEITH'S

Karyl Norman, who will probably always be known as "The Creole Fashion Plate," the name under which he first appeared, as a female impersonator, will top another double headline bill at B. F. Keith's theater next week. He will present "The Tunes of the Song Shop," assisted by Keno Claiborne and Bobbie Simonds, two lads who play the piano. Sharing headline honors with Mr. Norman will be the marvelous Lockfords, the world famous French dancers who are making a limited American tour. The Lockfords are brother and sister instrumental dance presentation they bring with them, Paul Tisen and his unique orchestra. The offering is called "Dances and Music."

Featured for the week will be the famous impersonators of old time characters, York & King, presenting, "The Old Family Tin Type." Vaudeville's little buffoon, Sylvia Clark, will follow in "Kavortings Unseen," written by Harry Delf and Bobbie Kuhn.

The Brants, Walter and Paul, will present their pantomime classic, "The Dream of a Moving Man." K. T. Kuma will entrance with his Japanese mysteries assisted by a Little Japanese band.

Pearson Brothers, will entertain with their acrobatic dancing under the title of "Rhythm." They are assisted by Cleo Newport.

Poster and "Peggy," an intelligence online, will follow and the bill will be surrounded by the usual screen features.

EARLE

Next week at the Earle theater the chief vaudeville attraction will be contributed by Elizabeth Brice, in association with Frank Kessler and his music reavers, a group of instrumentalists. Miss Brice has been a favorite in vaudeville, revue, musical comedy, the army campus during the war when she almost reached the front line trenches, and in almost every other branch of light musical diversion.

Other important inclusions in the vaudeville portion of the program will include the four casting stars in "A Sensational Aerial Novelty," Bill Utah, the Western breeze, really from the State whose name he assumes and a Westerner who has a penchant for the unusual in deft entertainment; Gula, Canadian, and Guth, presenting a happy combination of music and song; two Jimmies, Jimmy Rowland and Jimmy Meehan, in "Holding Up the Green," a fine vehicle for the talents of two of the most gifted character comedians on the boards.

The extra added attraction will be "The Broadway Whirl," a novelty song and dance revue.

The foremost photoplay offering next week will be the Paramount production of "The Enchanted Hill," an Irvin Willat picture starring Jack Holt, Florence Vidor, Noah Berry.

The Earle orchestra will contribute both concert overture and exit march and Alexander Arons will be heard in his delightful organ recitals from the console of the matchless instrument over which he presides.

MUTUAL

Frank Harcourt will bring his "Red Hot" company to the Mutual next week.

The show is described as a merry mélange of comedy skits and musical numbers and is "put across" by a company numbering in its cast Libbie Hart, prima donna; Vivian Lawrence, a gingery singing and dancing sourette; George Cohan, character comedian; Ed Griffin, Jack Staib and Bert Lester, excellent actors.

Babe Lawrence, ingenue, is featured with "Red Hot," being supported in the musical numbers by a splendid chorus of singing and dancing girls.

Matinees are given every day at the Mutual and a midnight show on Friday is now a regular weekly event.

Pablo Casals—Next Week.

Pablo Casals, the famous Spanish cellist, is announced as the sixth offering of the Ten Star series next Thursday. Casals is ranked as the greatest living interpretative artist, and needs no introduction to Washington, his several appearances here being greeted with capacity audiences, whose enthusiasm and applause brought encores carrying the recitals long past the allotted hour.

Midnight Shows.

Midnight shows are now a regular feature of the local Mutual theater and tonight Ray Read's "Speed Girls" are rarin' to give the extra performance of real, old-time burlesque in a modern setting. The show tonight will start at 11:30.

HIGH TEA and LOW TEA

ORANGE PEKOE can be superfine tea or distinctly inferior tea. It all depends on whether it is grown high in the mountains or in the lowlands. The higher it is grown, the better the tea.

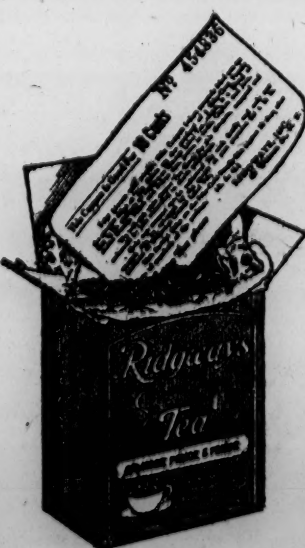

Asking for Orange Pekoe and hoping to get good tea is almost like asking for meat and hoping to get filet mignon.

Ask for the tea you want by name.

Ask for a ten cent package of Ridgways Orange Label Tea. You will get a wonderful blend of teas grown high in the mountains of India, Ceylon and Java. This blend combines the delicious fragrance of Orange Pekoe with the full rich flavor of the fully matured Pekoe leaf. It is superior to any straight Orange Pekoe which can be sold at a popular price.

TOURISTS' CAMP HOUSE BIDS TO BE ASKED SOON

New Building to Contain Stores, Dining Hall and Library.

COST PLACED AT $50,000

Bids for the construction of the community house of the Tourists' camp will be asked in a few days and the work of establishing the camp as a permanent institution will be begun as soon as the weather permits, Maj. U. S. Grant, 3d, director of public buildings and public parks, announced yesterday. The community building is to cost $50,000.

Establishment of the Tourists' camp as a permanent institution in East Potomac park will be undertaken against the advice of the fine arts commission, which, however, will not attempt now to interfere with the project.

While specifications have not yet been drawn, it generally is understood that the community building will correspond in exterior appearances to the field house of the East Potomac golf course. It will have stores, storerooms, a library, dining hall and several other rooms. It continues the permanent construction work, which was begun in the camp last year with the installation of sewerage and tent floors.

The fine arts commission, when the project was first broached, objected because it put a not altogether slightly spectacle in about one-fourth of Washington's most desirable parks. It intended that, by its very nature, the Tourists' camp should be on the outskirts of the city, and above all, should not be in East Potomac park.

But Congress specifically appropriated for the present site, and nothing remains to be done but to establish the camp permanently where it is.

Overheated Furnace Causes Blaze

Fire from an overheated furnace yesterday caused $100 damage to the residence at 2566 Nichols avenue southeast, occupied by Sallie Robertson, colored.

MODISH MITZI

Mitzi is being watched. Not that Mitzi ever minds having an audience! However you can see that this window peeper is different from the other men of her acquaintance. Anyway he is watching her clasp this pearl necklace with its plaques mounted with emeralds and rhinestones.

All That Watchful Waiting

Now in the room, he watches her try on another necklace of pearls with dangly drops of colored stones. The effect is very good thinks Mitzi. The loot is going to be the best he has gotten for some time thinks the Man with the Mask who is meditating action.

The admiration of the Man with the Mask at the sight of the necklace with rubies, emeralds and pearls is too great. He speaks and Mitzi according to the next morning's paper looks into the cold muzzle of a 44 ("or is it 36?"). It is rather startling to have some one unannounced this way ask the favor of one's jewels.

"You can have them all," says Mitzi generously collecting her thoughts and her jewelry. "You see all this new jewelry is just colored glass anyway. And you'll leave me these blue beads won't you, please?" The Man with the Mask is a gentleman. Leave them? Most certainly! Leave her, leave the house, leave everything. Mitzi thinks it might help his business if he studied fashions more.

Says The Woman Golfer

"Bert says I'm playing a wonderful game lately... insists it's the new way of teeing off he's shown me. Don't say a word... it tickles his vanity to think so... but all the time I know it's my Glen Bogie!"

"Dibs, you don't know the joy of golf till you wear one. It's comfort itself to begin with... and I do declare I kept right on playing last Saturday till it was so dark I could hardly see... and wasn't a bit tired."

"One of those 'Bogies' is going to be in my tournament outfit...!"

Solemn Philosophy.

MY dear Miss McDonald: Aneunt the subject of "Uncertain's" problem, which appeared in this morning's paper, I should like to add a criticism and an opinion which struck me on the moment as fitting to write and not useful for print, still a certain relief to one who rarely ventures opinions. Simply this:

"Uncertain" has not probably read the classics to come across the fine bit of poetry of Seneca in which is mentioned that two burning fires consume each other in short time, leaving burnt out ashes as a remnant of their fire and heat. So, with people whose emotions are too soon released by a weak objective mind of reason. When two such persons meet, and love, there is all the "grand passion" of a Hero and Leander, but it never lasts as the reserved affection of a Philemon and Baucis. But, of course, "Uncertain" was frank in admitting her reading of fiction; the present-day movie is also a misleading educator in love... in fact, anything in the movies and books of today should be reasoned out to be just the antithesis of truth and realism.

May I add that the trouble of the social and ethical system of today is just expressed in the words of "Uncertain." What the modern flapper reads is supposed to be educating, whereas it is entirely the opposite. To me the flapper is not sophisticated, bold or advanced in wisdom of the realities of life. She is supremely ignorant of the truth, knowing perhaps half truth, and acting with that as a guiding staff she loses herself in the divergent experiences which she has set out to enjoy with impunity and finds herself in a horrible slough of despond, notwithstanding her supposed sophistication.

"Uncertain's" ideas of love may have been scanned in books and may have sounded truly wonderful, but the real truth of love is never propounded by the tactful soul that has lived life. The reason why I do not care to say, for fear that I may be termed a cynic... meaning that all cynics are usually the truth-tellers.

Would that there were laws against these romantic tales of impassioned love and wonderful infatuations! This age of jazz can never improve with that hokum spread on every morsel of "sophistication" that the modern girl draws from her reading and movie going. Or if not laws, why not educate people in colleges and not miseducate them. (I am a college man—that is, I was). Why not teach the maturing girl the truth in high school instead of demurely touching on subjects that if girls did not analyze for themselves, they certainly gathered from the puns and jokes told her by her sorority sister.

"Uncertain" is not to blame. Neither is the flapper to be blamed. The blame lies in the educational system, the parental modesty to tell the unbiased truth and the lack of candid advice between fellow men. The modern girl still believes in romance. She still pictures her Galahad even if he has changed his armor to plus-fours or Oxford bags. She is not as sophisticated as she acts... although she is skeptical. She knows nothing of natural propensities, worldly enticements or the psychology of love and human nature. In all, she is a marionette painted as a girl, being acted by strings worked by strings and often existing and experiencing in a hard and costly manner despite her feigned sophistication and ability to care for her own body and soul.

PITUITARY TYPES.

THINGS that are going to be are going to be whether they come to pass or not. That's the religious dogma. The science of the pituitary gland is entirely the opposite. To me the flapper is not sophisticated, bold or advanced in wisdom of the realities of life. She is supremely ignorant of the truth, knowing perhaps half truth, and acting with that as a guiding staff she loses herself in the divergent experiences which she has set out to enjoy with impunity and finds herself in a horrible slough of despond, notwithstanding her supposed sophistication.

As a result of a study of women in the Sloane Maternity hospital, Dr. Draper thinks he can tell what type of woman is liable to develop high blood pressure and perhaps convulsions during the course of her pregnancy and confinement. He is also willing to hazard a guess as to which women will develop Bright's disease during this experience. He bases his opinion on a very careful and very extensive measurement of the human body according to a plan that he has been working out for several years.

The woman who is prone to develop idiopathic hypertension, which, rendered into simple words, is high blood pressure without accompanying Bright's disease or heart disease, is the large, heavy-faced woman with a distribution of hair which suggests victory.

THE SHIP SAILORS

I saw three ships come sailing in. Three argosies of clouds and air. And all the dreams men used to spin. It seemed had found fulfillment there.

Mankind has watched the ships go out. And stood to see the ships come home. And woven stirring songs about. A spreading sail and dashing foam.

The ships have lured brave boys away. To ride the waves and breast the gales. But now we face a newer day. And ships have neither masts nor sails.

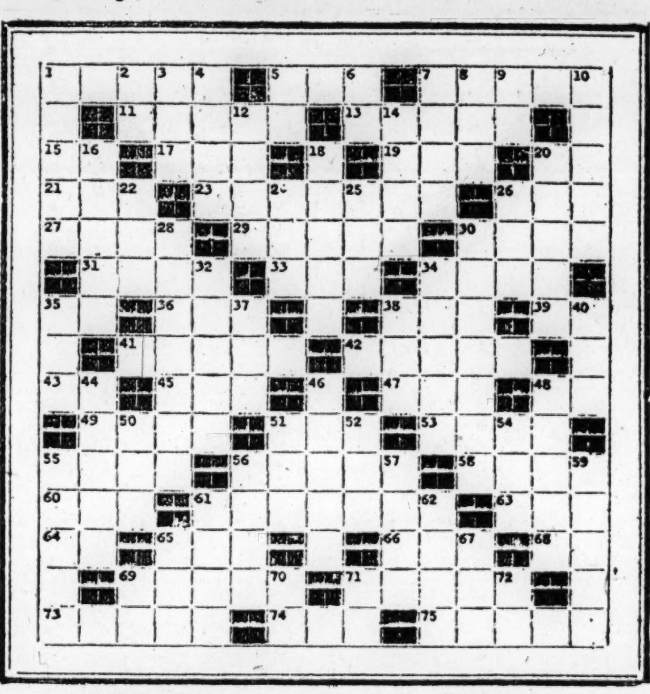

Now over land and spire and tree. The argosies of air set out. As earlier vessels of the sea. The liners of the sky are stout.

The pilot waves a brave farewell. A motor roars, the ship ascends. The course is set and all is well. God grant the trip as bravely ends.

Now many a little boy, as I. Once yearned to know the salty sea. Shall long to know the realms of sky. And pilot such an argosy.

And for the daring lads who roam I find this prayer upon my lips, God keep and bring them safely home. Who go up to the sky in ships. (Copyright, 1926, Edgar A. Guest.)

REPLY.

1. Sunstroke is a condition in which there is a loss of relation between heat production and heat dissipation. This is supposed to be due to a paralysis of certain temperature centers in the brain. It is characterized by very high fever, unconsciousness, rapid pulse, red face and other symptoms. The cause is exposure to sunlight and sun heat. Heat stroke is a related but somewhat different disorder. Thickening of the meninges and headaches are likely to follow sunstroke.

No. 2. No. That is due to the pigment in his skin. The shape of his nose, and especially his nostril, has been said to be one reason the negro does not stand cold well.

BABY IS FINICKY.

Mrs. J. writes: My baby is 14 months old; weighs about 20-24 pounds. I feed him on grade A milk. I try to give him vegetables and orange juice and prune juice, but he does not seem to want anything but his bottle. He does not make any attempt to stand on his feet.

REPLY.

If you will give him less milk hunger will drive him to eat other foods. A baby 14 months old should be eating soups, breads, cereals, vegetables, fruit and meat or eggs as well as milk. Is your baby rickety?

THE HOUSEKEEPER

By NANCY CAREY.

WE have a letter from a bachelor who has, because of the beerlessness of the age, lost his finesse with a welsh rarebit, and who wants us to furnish him with a formula which will, without benefit of Bass' ale, recover for him his reputation as a maker of this delectable supper dish. This one will prove satisfactory, I think, Mr. Ward, and we shall be interested to know how you succeed.

We are mailing Mrs. White, of 1642 Thirtieth street northwest, a menu and suggestions for her daughter's party, which will, we hope, be a delightful one. We are pleased to know that we are of assistance and shall be glad to hear from Mrs. White again.

WELSH RAREBIT.

Put one tablespoonful of butter in a chafing dish and melt it. Melted add one-half pound of soft mild cheese cut in small pieces, one fourth teaspoonful of salt, a half-teaspoonful of mustard, a few grains of cayenne and a few grains of white pepper. As the cheese melts add one-third to one-half cup "near beer" while stirring constantly and then one egg slightly beaten. Serve on toasted bread or crackers.

Now for a menu for today. Some of us bought a ham tenderloin for midweek and will want a new way to make use of the remnants. Ham is a little more difficult to make over attractively than some of the other meats, but one nice receipt, and a very simple one, is ham en casserole, or, if you have a chafing dish, ham with jelly. Here is a menu with which either or welsh rarebit, may be used:

MENU.

Tomato Soup
Crackers
Ham en Casserole
Ham with Jelly Sauce
Baked Noodles
Cheese
Coffee
Place the ground, cold-boiled ham in the bottom of a buttered casserole and add a half cup of cold milk. Sprinkle over this a scant tablespoonful of flour and cover with rings of sliced green pepper. Break an egg into each ring and cover with a cup of grated American cheese, to which a few drops of tabasco sauce has been added. Bake in a hot oven 20 minutes.

Ham With Jelly Sauce.

Into a chafing dish put a half tablespoonful of butter, a third cup currant jelly, one cup cold ham cut in thin strips, a few grains of cayenne, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce and let simmer seven minutes. This may also be served with toasted bread or crackers.

Baked Noodles.

One box of noodles cooked until tender in boiling salted water. Make a rich white sauce of one heaping teaspoonful each, butter and flour rubbed together and a cup of milk. Add to this a tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce and a cup of grated cheese. Then add the sauce to the cooked noodles and bake until well browned. If you use ham en casserole, which is also a cheese dish, it would be well to serve with it a fresh green vegetable instead of baked noodles. And do not run cold water through your noodles as you did the macaroni, as it will toughen it.

Remember that we are anxious to hear from you, and if you have delicious and unusual receipts that you are willing to share, we shall be glad to have them to test and publish.

Fashion Hint

BROWN VELVET AND GOLD.

Soft chifon velvet in a glorious shade of brown is used for the development of this straight-line frock. The trimming is of gold braid, touched with splashes of tan, and takes the form of a band at the head of the circular flounce which forms the lower section of the frock. The embroidery appears again on the long, close-fitting sleeves. Medium size requires 4 1/2 yards 36-inch material, with 1 1/2 yards of braid to trim. Pictorial View Printed Pattern, No. 2874. Sizes, 14 to 18 years, and 34 to 38 inches bust. Price, 45 cents.

UNCLE RAY

Roman

YOU MAY remember that one reader of the Corner asked me why the Romans wanted to conquer everybody else. Summed up the reason was the desire of leaders for power and wealth. The common soldiers fought and bled and died—but seldom did they become rich or powerful. Their general and emperors won power, glory and plunder.

From their plunder the Roman leaders sometimes gave gold for public shows—for fights in the arena and races at the circus grounds. They spent money for public bath-palaces, too; but you may be sure that their own homes and feasts took up much of the booty.

Roman soldiers had no gunpowder to use in their wars; so they were less deadly than soldiers of today. All of Caesar's legions could not have stood against a single regiment of modern soldiers armed with machine guns and cannon.

Roman soldiers did not need to face guns, however. To move armies of those days, they were well ready. Drilled with care, and taught to be willing to die for their leaders, they won victory after victory.

Among the weapons of war used by the Romans were "catapults" and "ballistas."

The catapult was a machine used for hurling darts and spears. By turning a crank, the cord of a heavy bow was drawn back. When the cord was set free, it sent the missile forward with great speed.

The ballista was sometimes made in much the same fashion, but it commonly threw out a good-sized stone, instead of a dart or spear. Other ballistas were worked by levers in a manner not clearly known.

TELLING TOMMY

WHY YES, SON, I THINK I MIGHT BE ABLE TO

DADDY COULD YOU START A FIRE UP AT THE NORTH POLE IF YOU DIDN'T HAVE MATCHES?

THE HEAT WAVES OF THE SUN, BEING JUST LIKE LIGHT WAVES, CAN BE REFLECTED AND REFRACTED. THUS, AT THE FOCUS OF A LENS OR BURNING GLASS THE HEAT WAVES ARE CONCENTRATED SO THAT A FIRE CAN BE STARTED BY PUTTING SHAVINGS OR PAPER AT THAT POINT NOW IF WE WERE CAUGHT AT THE NORTH POLE WITHOUT MATCHES WE MIGHT SHAPE A ROUGH LENS OUT OF CLEAR ICE AND USE IT AS A BURNING GLASS.

DADDY SLIPPED ON MY PIECE OF ICE, SO EVEN IF I DIDN'T GET A FIRE STARTED HE'LL MAKE IT "HOT" ENOUGH FOR ME IF HE FINDS ME

MERGENTHALER STOCK INCREASE IS PROPOSED

Directors Suggest Exchanging 150,000 $100 Shares for 300,000 at No Par.

STOCKHOLDERS TO VOTE

By F. W. PATTERSON.

The board of directors of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co. have passed a resolution recommending to the stockholders that the present authorized 150,000 shares of the $100 par value stock be increased to 300,000 shares of no par value stock and that for each share of $100 par value stock now held, stockholders be given two shares of no par value stock. A special meeting of stockholders of the company will be called, due notice of which will be given, for the purpose of presenting the plan and procuring their approval.

The present authorized capital of the company is $15,000,000, of which $12,800,000, or 128,000 shares, is outstanding. Under the recommendation made by the board there will be 250,000 shares of the no par value new stock issued, leaving 40,000 shares unissued in the treasury.

Merchants Transfer Issue Offered.

Crane, Harris & Co. are sponsoring and offering today an issue of $500,000 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, series A, of the Merchants Transfer & Storage Co., at 100 per share. This preferred stock is entitled to receive a cumulative dividend at the fixed rate of 7 per cent per annum from February 1, payable April 1, and thereafter payable on the first days of July, October, January and April in each year; is redeemable after three years on any dividend date, at company's option, in whole or in part, at $115 and accrued dividends per share; is nonvoting except in the event of defaults in the payment of dividends for eight consecutive quarterly periods, in which event it is entitled to vote equally with the common stock. The American Security & Trust Co. is the transfer agent.

It is anticipated that subscriptions to this issue of stock will be heavily oversubscribed, and should the amount asked for exceed $500,000, the company reserves the right to allot such subscriptions up to, but not exceeding $1,000,000, this to be done by an allotment committee designated by the company.

The Merchants Transfer & Storage Co. was organized on April 25, 1901, with a capital of $150,000, which from time to time has been increased to $1,000,000, to do a general warehousing and transfer business. In 1924, the charter was amended so as to permit the company to do a general finance business and it is in the interest of this department of the business that the new financing is being done. The company has paid dividends continuously on its common stock since 1904, as follows: 1904 to 1907 at the rate of 4 per cent; 1907, 5 per cent; 1908, 6 per cent; 1909, 6 per cent; 1910, 6 per cent; ## Steel Barometer to Show Street's Weather Outlook

By S. S. FONTAINE.

New York, Jan. 13.—Steel is the aneroid barometer by which the market meteorologists are forecasting future weather conditions south of Fulton street. But the confusing part of it is that some read its indices one way, and others the other. For instance, one set of observers were positive today that the needle was pointing to a barometric depression, while others were equally certain that its course was towards higher levels, where there is no danger of precipitation but an arid area embraced in the sector—fair and warmer.

And the old theory of pigs and pig iron, invented by Samuel Benner and adopted by his residuary legatees, Col. Leonard P. Ayres, of Cleveland, is summoned to the support of one group of gentlemen highly skilled in reading, not only the barometer, but the sun spots and the stars in the financial firmament as well. Thus spoke the weather man of Spencer, Trask & Co., as he hung out the red flag which signals to the wayfarer, "Beware the storm!"

An event second only in importance to the rate advance to many of those following the market has been the publication of figures covering blast furnace activity at January 1. There were said to be 234 furnaces in blast, which now represent more than 60 per cent of the total number of active furnaces of the country. On the basis of past experience, a signal therefore has been given that the bull market is about to turn into a bear market. Moreover, there has been no improvement in the condition of loans, report of loans on stocks and bonds of member banks of the Federal Reserve system, as the close of the year presented a new high figure of $5,759,678,000. Considered from a speculative standpoint, the crowded ice is becoming too thin under the profit-sharing plan, they think it is cheap at the price, and I think it forecasts a 9 per cent dividend rate at the next quarter, or the one thereafter."

It requires no wide stretch of the imagination to visualize the rubber stocks as important factors in the next phase of the advance, which caused the man who loves to wave the Stars and Stripes in the face of John Bull, rubber monopolist, to remark:

"All the talk is rubber, and with the automobile show now in progress, the American rubber men, under the leadership of that good press agent, Herbert Hoover, preparing to spend ten millions in rubber plantations, and with the price of rubber goods going up again toward a dollar, there is a lot of speculation as to who the real trail blazer of American rubber for Americans really is. The situation now coming to a climax makes the group that made possible the Intercontinental Rubber Co. very much in the public eye. For G. H. Carnahan, president of the Intercontinental Rubber Co., and Grayson P. M. Murphy, who led Wall street to have faith in rubber grown by Americans for Americans, are the real pioneers, and they have been ably supported by such men as Thomas F. Ryan, William A. Potter, John Morrow, P. Brady, Charles H. Sabin, Thomas W. Lamont, Charles A. Corliss, Elton Parks and Fred Osborn.

"The Intercontinental Rubber Co. has made its mark in carrying the stars and stripes into rubberdom. The company has developed the extensive cultivation of the Guayule (pronounced Wyayule) rubber shrub of Mexico and has been making money for its stockholders out of what is known as duro rubber."

"Industrial output has been large, railroad transportation efficient, employment general and wages high. The agricultural sections of the country have fared relatively well. The present prospects are that good business will continue well into 1926, although it seems likely that the peak of this wave of exceptional prosperity will be reached and passed in the coming year.

"Well," said the cynic, "when Elbert H. Gary and George F. Baker sell to the employees of Corporation Steel common at 136, the highest price ever fixed by the steel board under the profit-sharing plan, they think it is cheap at the price, and I think it forecasts a 9 per cent dividend rate at the next quarter, or the one thereafter."

It requires no wide stretch of the imagination to visualize the rubber stocks as important factors in the next phase of the advance, which caused the man who loves to wave the Stars and Stripes in the face of John Bull, rubber monopolist, to remark:

Potter, John Morrow, P. Brady, Charles H. Sabin, Thomas W. Lamont, Charles A. Corliss, Elton Parks and Fred Osborn.

"The Intercontinental Rubber Co. has made its mark in carrying the stars and stripes into rubberdom. The company has developed the extensive cultivation of the Guayule (pronounced Wyayule) rubber shrub of Mexico and has been making money for its stockholders out of what is known as duro rubber."

"I do not suppose," said a big financier today, "that any large number of persons know that rubber is actually being grown within the mainland of the United States. But such is the case."

"The Guayule rubber shrub, which grows wild in Mexico, is under successful cultivation in California, so that the rubber growing industry has already sent down its roots in the United States. In the popular mind, rubber growing is associated with trees in the tropics, which are tapped for their juice, which is turned into rubber."

"What will surprise many is that the Guayule rubber during 1925 produced for the Intercontinental Rubber Co. 7,883,996 pounds of rubber, which was sold in the American market for a net profit of $1,730,000. This Guayule shrub, which will now attract much attention, is a little plant that grows naturally about 18 inches high. It flourishes in a hot, moist climate and grows in large expanses of country that are otherwise barren of vegetation. It is harvested at small cost, ground, treated for the rubber, and the product is in much demand. There are four mills of this company in operation in Mexico and the company owns 1,882,000 acres and obtains under profit-sharing agreement raw material from the territory as large as the holdings of the company. The cost of producing this duro rubber from the Guayule plant was 17 cents a pound; the average price in the New York market last year was 29 cents a pound, but the price now is 54 cents; 4,229,400 pounds of the 1926 production was sold some time ago in advance at that figure, and the profit will be $1,565,000.

"This is a very fascinating subject for the American rubber user. The Guayule plant, cultivated artificially, comes into maturity in about five years, I am told, and this beats the time in which the rubber tree matures and becomes ready for tapping.

"Americans, having become aroused over the British control of the rubber market, are now 'going to it' and, as usual, will be in danger of overdoing it. But the plantations which are being planted by the American capitalists will not affect the market for about seven years, and most of the rubber exporters expect that the demand for rubber will be just ahead of the supply until about 1932.

"The prices of rubber in this market, according to the American Rubber association, in the last five years have been 16.3 in 1921, 17.3 in 1922, 29.5 in 1923, 26.1 in 1924 and 72.3 in 1925. Now the price hangs around 90 cents. This is due to the continuous demand for rubber for the balloon tires and other uses in automobiles in America. We have been using rubber with a vengeance and we have had to, most of it from the British and Dutch. Why, in 1925 the world produced 477,500 tons of rubber and used 540,000 tons. Of this the United States required 355,000 tons and the rest of the world only 92,500 tons.

"So far as I know, the pioneer of American growing abroad from trees was the Intercontinental Rubber Co. It has a plantation of 22,000 acres in Sumatra. It planted 400 acres up to 1921 and will proceed to plant the remainder of its territory. Henry Firestone is reported to have secured an option on 1,000,000 acres in Liberia and is engaged in planting. The Goodrich Rubber Co. has also gone into the foreign field. It is high time, when we consider our rubber consumption. Thirteen years ago the entire world consumed 30,000 tons of rubber. In 1925 the United States demand for rubber was 60,000 tons more than in the preceding year."

"By the way, isn't Intercontinental Col. William Boyce Thompson's specialty?"

"Yes."

"But how's the colonel's health? At last reports he was very sick in London."

"Oh, he's all right now. It was only a little case of indigestion—came from eating snails at a London club."

"Snails? No wonder—that's going some for a hard-boiled boy from Butte."

"Well, confidentially, brother," said the man from Montana, "I think it was a case of mistaken identity. Col. Bill is a bit near-sighted, and when he read the carte du jour he thought he was ordering snails."

Mr. A. H. Goss, President of Electric Refrigeration Corporation, has summarized, in part, his letter to us of January 9, 1926, as follows:

BUSINESS: The Corporation has been formed, under the laws of Michigan, to acquire the capital stocks of Kelvinator Corporation, of Nizer Corporation, and of Grand Rapids Refrigerator Company. The holders of more than a majority of the capital stocks of Kelvinator Corporation and of Nizer Corporation have informally agreed to deposit their stock under a Plan and Agreement for exchange for stock of the Corporation, share for share, and the holders of the entire capital stock of Grand Rapids Refrigerator Company have entered into a contract for the sale of their stock. These Notes are being issued as part of the consideration for the Grand Rapids Refrigerator Company stock. The three constituent companies are engaged in complementary but distinct fields of the refrigeration industry. Kelvinator Corporation is the oldest and a leading manufacturer of electric refrigeration equipment for use in homes. Nizer Corporation is the pioneer and a leading producer of electric refrigeration equipment for commercial users, particularly for dairies, ice cream manufacturers, butchers, grocers, etc. Grand Rapids Refrigerator Company is the largest manufacturer in this country of refrigerator cabinets for household and commercial use, its principal product being the "Leonard Cleanable Refrigerator." The new Corporation will have the opportunity, through normal integration in the industry, of covering all aspects of electric refrigeration, including the household field, the field of commercial users, and the production of refrigerators. The combined number of sales outlets of the three constituent companies exceeds 5,000, of which not less than 1,000 are now public utility representations. This will give the Corporation the largest and most extensive distributing and service organization in the industry.

ASSETS: After giving effect to the completion of the transactions in connection with this financing, the combined total assets of the three constituent companies as of October 31, 1925, amounted to $11,841,047.40, of which $7,268,404.97 in amount were current assets; their combined current liabilities amounted to $1,414,917.54, showing an excess of current assets equal to $5,853,487.43 or nearly twice the face amount of this issue of Notes; the three constituent companies had no funded debt, and had combined fixed assets, subject to no mortgage liens, conservatively valued at $3,141,618.42, after adequate allowance for depreciation.

EARNINGS: The combined net earnings of the three constituent companies, after depreciation and all other charges, except Federal Taxes, have been as follows:

|                  |                |
|------------------|----------------|
| 1923             | $1,421,379.71 |
| 1924             | 1,774,646.04   |
| 1925 (10 months) | 2,831,169.00   |

For the first ten months of 1925, the combined net earnings of the three constituent companies, before Federal Taxes, were at the rate of more than eighteen times the amount of the annual interest requirement of this issue of Notes.

MANAGEMENT: The same managements which have successfully developed and operated the Kelvinator and Nizer businesses will continue in the active direction of Electric Refrigeration Corporation.

Price 99 1/2 and Accrued Interest, Yielding over 6%

It is anticipated that all or substantially all of the capital stocks of Kelvinator Corporation and of Nizer Corporation will be exchanged for stock of Electric Refrigeration Corporation, and all calculations in this advertisement have been based on the assumption that the acquisition of the entire capital stocks will be effected. In the event that less than the entire capital stocks are exchanged, the proportion of earnings and assets of those two companies applicable to the holdings of Electric Refrigeration Corporation and the amount of outstanding stock of the latter will be reduced accordingly.

This offering is made in all respects when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to the approval of Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell, of New York City. Audits of the books of the three constituent companies have been made by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst, Certified Public Accountants.

It is expected that delivery of temporary Notes or interim receipts will be made on or about February 5, 1926, at the office of Prince & Whitley, 25 Broad Street, New York, N. Y., against payment therefor in New York funds.

A letter from Mr. John L. Newbold, President of the Company, is summarized as follows:

BUSINESS

MERCHANTS TRANSFER & STORAGE COMPANY was organized under the laws of the State of Delaware April 25, 1901, with a capital of $150,000, which from time to time has been increased to $1,000,000, to do a general warehousing and transfer business. In January, 1924, the charter was amended permitting the Company to do a general finance business. In March, 1924, the Company entered the business of purchasing open commercial accounts, secured by conservative margin, from well-rated manufacturers, jobbers and wholesalers, representing diversified industries. Payments of the accounts in full are guaranteed by the sellers, although the advances made to the sellers are not more than 80% of the face amount purchased; the remaining 20% being withheld until the accounts are fully liquidated.

EARNINGS

|                                  | 1923         | 1924         | 1925         | 12 Months Ended May 30, 1925 | 12 Months Ended Dec 31, 1925 |
|----------------------------------|--------------|--------------|--------------|------------------------------|------------------------------|
| Gross Earnings                   | $214,165.03 | $192,393.99 | $179,970.96 | $187,210.94                 | $200,730.00                 |
| Operating Expenses and Taxes     | 101,465.00   | 86,254.55    | 86,845.47    | 94,231.39                    | 91,587.59                    |
| Net Earnings before Depreciation | 112,700.03   | 106,139.44   | 93,125.49    | 92,979.55                    | 109,142.41                   |
| Net Earnings                     | 63,481.55    | 42,464.41    | 63,504.41    | 61,495.55                    | 83,658.88                    |

The management after a careful analysis and based on actual net earnings of the Company for the last quarter of 1925, conservatively estimates that, after giving effect to the proposed increased capital of $500,000, the net earnings for 1926 will exceed $180,000, which will be more than five times the dividend requirements on the $500,000 of Preferred Stock. If $1,000,000 of Preferred Stock should be allotted, it is estimated the earnings will exceed $215,000 or more than three times the dividend requirements.

EQUITY

This issue of Preferred Stock is followed by $1,000,000 par value of Common Stock having a value, according to the latest quoted price of $115 per share, indicating a market equity of about $1,150,000 behind the Preferred Stock.

PURPOSE

The Preferred Stock is issued for the purpose of providing additional capital to care for the rapid increase in the business of the Finance Department and will enable the Company to handle a larger volume of such business with practically no increase in overhead expenses.

DIVIDENDS

The Company has paid cash dividends continuously on its Common Stock since 1904 as follows: From 1904 to 1907—4%; 1907—5%; 1908 to 1917—6%; 1917, 6 1/2%; 1918, 8%; 1919—12%; 1920 to 1926, 10%. Stock dividends have been paid as follows:

1907—50%; 1912—33 1-3%; 1920—25%; 1925—33 1-3%.

Legal matters pertaining to the issuance of the Preferred Stock have been passed upon for the Company by Messrs. Tobriner & Graham, and for the Bankers by Messrs. McKenney & Flannery. The accounts have been audited for the Company by Messrs. Cuncior, Thompson & Phagan and by Messrs. R. G. Rankin & Company for the Bankers.

It is expected that permanent certificates will be ready for delivery on or about February 1, 1926.

Application will be made to list this stock on the Washington Stock Exchange.

RAILS AND INDUSTRIALS ARE IN BRISK DEMAND

Increased Activity Marks Further Rally in Stocks; Oils Are Irregular.

CALL FUNDS 4 1/2 PER CENT

New York, Jan. 13.—Today's stock market was firm to strong, with speculative rallies advancing in good order and keen demand showing for many industrials, in which net gains ranged up to 5 points or so. A notable exception to the upward trend, however, was General Electric, which yielded 5 1/2 points on a large turnover.

Increased activity of trading attended the rally, that increase being susceptible of the interpretation that the corrective selling which had been in progress for several days had strengthened the market's technical position. Further dribbling had occurred, but the aggressive attacks which the bears had launched against prices in the recent past were conspicuously absent from the trading, possibly because money was easier, but also probably because the recent reaction had failed to bring about a general liquidating movement.

Dealings quieted down in the late session, and the turnover was about 1,650,000 shares.

The rails on which demand converged were stocks in the Southwestern group which are expected to figure largely in consolidations within the next few years, such as Texas and Pacific, Rock Island, Missouri, Kansas & Texas, and Missouri Pacific. The gains in those issues ran from 2 to about 4 points.

Wabash issues, which led the recovery in the rally yesterday, were less active today. However, the preferred "A" stock registered a new high record price. On the other hand the common stock reflected profit taking in a rather sharp reaction.

Gains of from 1 to 4 points were numbered in the industrial list, the active issues including National Biscuit, California Packing, Pullman, Foundation Co. and Agricultural Chemical. American Woolen was bid up and Urban American Sugar and Tobacco Products were strong. American Can closed 5 1/2 points up.

Steels and steel industrials also did better. Steel common rallied to 137 but did not hold the gain. Baldwin Locomotive advanced and Allis-Chalmers reached new high ground for the year. Oils were irregular. Although the demand of Sinclair Consolidated took no dividend action at today's meeting, the stock was in demand and moved up a point.

Call money renewed and ruled at 4 1/2 per cent, unchanged, but outside the exchange demand funds were available at 4 per cent.

Foreign exchange was steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN.
Chicago, Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—With Argentina and Australia represented as pressing their surplus wheat for sale, the wheat market here could muster no sufficient buying power today to overcome fully the effect of recurring declines. The market for wheat was unsettled at 12 1/2 to 13c net loss. May, new 12 1/2 to 12 3/4c; July, 12 1/2 to 12 3/4c; finished 12 1/2 to 12 3/4c, oats unchanged at 12 1/2 to 12 3/4c, corn varying from a shade lower to 3 cents advance.

Unlooked for weakness of values at Liverpool and Buenos Aires started a downward trend early in the Chicago wheat pit, and led to selling on the part of many holders of future deliveries. The market was numerous standing orders to stop losses at various fixed limits were forced into operation, and May went nearly 3 cents under yesterday's last figure. The market for wheat was unsettled at 12 1/2 to 13c net loss. May, new 12 1/2 to 12 3/4c; July, 12 1/2 to 12 3/4c; finished 12 1/2 to 12 3/4c, oats unchanged at 12 1/2 to 12 3/4c, corn varying from a shade lower to 3 cents advance.

Higher premiums obtainable for wheat to be delivered at once here were at times somewhat of a stimulus toward an upward swing in the market, and so too were assertions that apparent surplus in the United States is less than the estimated requirements of importers. Talk was also current that four purchasing had enlarged and that export business in wheat has a greater volume than generally admitted. Southern hemisphere advices, nevertheless, acted as a weight on the market.

Profit taking sales did a good deal of pull on corn prices. Besides, the pull came from a new source, aggressive buying which had of late been evident. Data held within narrow limits.

Higher premiums averaged higher, sympathizing with higher quotations on wheat.

U. S. GOLF TEAM, INCLUDING MACKENZIE, IS NAMED

College Fives Fordham Five In 2 Games Beats C. U., 26-21

Georgetown Engages Bucknell and G. W. Plays Lafayette.

Hilltoppers Hope to Wipe Out Sting of Football Defeat.

LAFAYETTE college basketball will make their second appearance of the week before District court fans tonight, when they engage the George Washington five on the latter's court at 8:30 o'clock. The Lafayette five nosed out Georgetown Tuesday by a single point in an exciting overtime game and showed much power.

After a single day's lay-off Georgetown will also get into action again tonight, entertaining the Bucknell courtmen on the Ryan gymnasium floor. This game also will start at 8:30 o'clock.

While a great deal of interest attaches to both games, the performance of Lafayette will undoubtedly draw the attention of the majority of fans. If the George Washington five can conquer Lafayette, it will be a feather in its cap, and Coach Crum will send his men on the floor with instructions to halt Hack and Duffy, the two shooting stars of the visitors' team.

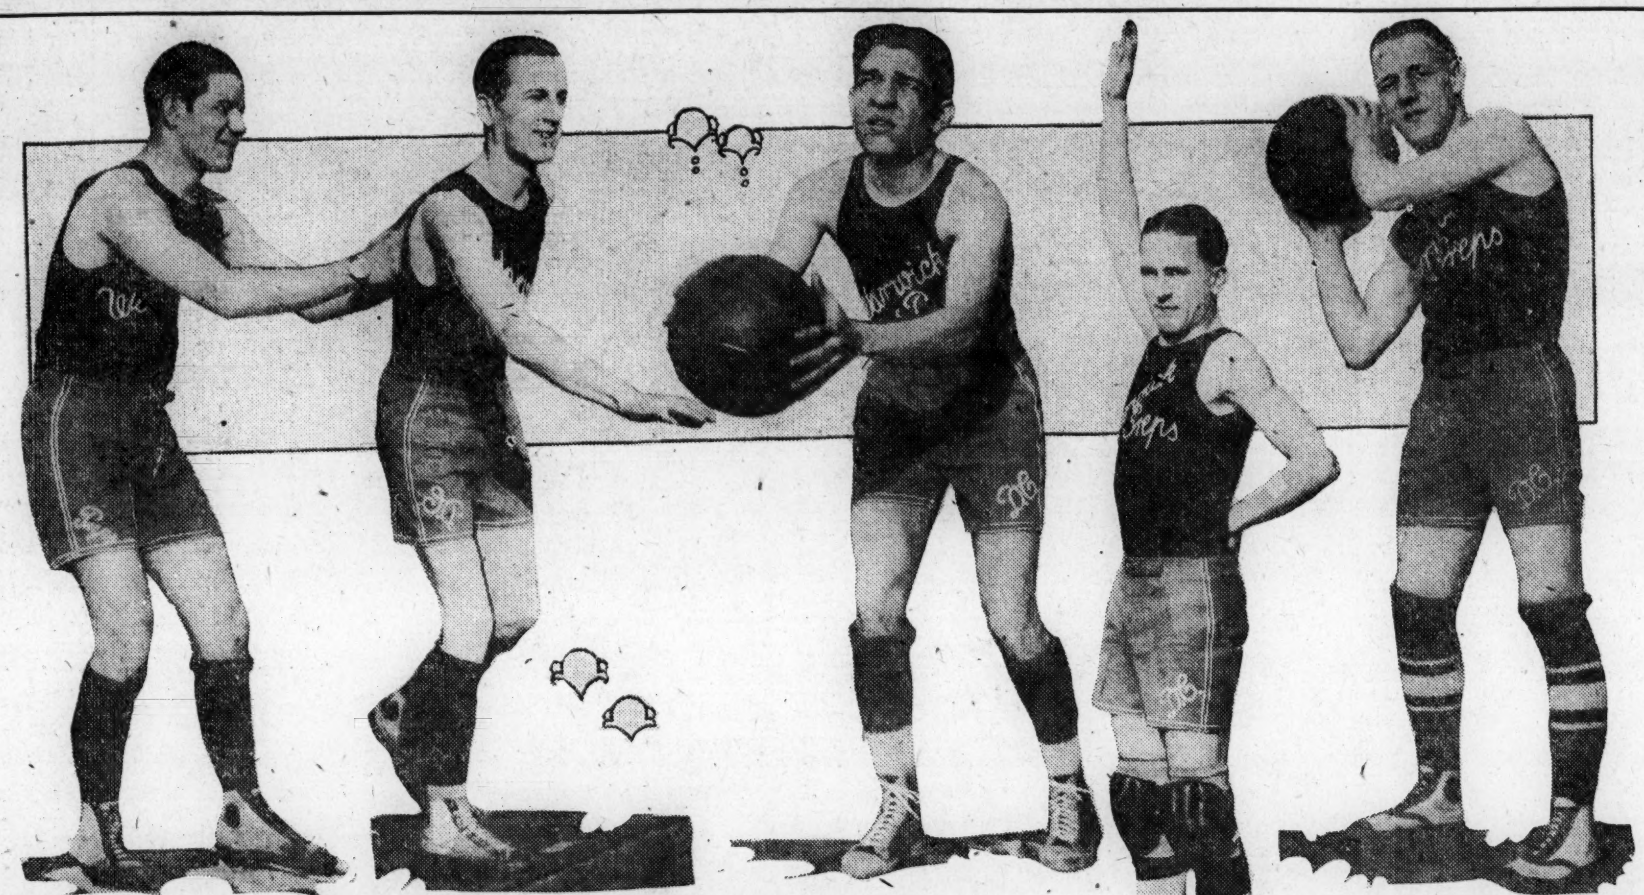

THE Hatchettes showed further improvement against Richmond Monday night. They have had two hard practice sessions since then and may step out and take the strong Lafayette team in camp. Capt. Wallace is the big gun for the Downtowners and will be a hard man for the visiting guards to halt. His shooting, may decide the game.

The Georgetown team hopes to wipe out the football defeat of last fall suffered at Bucknell's hands by a decisive victory tonight. Although disappointed by their heartbreaking loss to Lafayette the Hilltoppers are far from discouraged and will take the floor a favorite to win.

LINCOLN HERE TONIGHT.

The Lincoln varsity five, of Oxford, Pa., will meet the Carlises, colored champion court tossers of this city, at the Lincoln coliseum tonight.

THE WARWICK PREPS, OF NORTHEAST, ARE ENDEAVORING TO PUT THE CLUB NAME IN THE PROMINENT PLACE IN BASKETBALL circles which it has held in baseball ranks over a period of six years. Although the season has hardly reached the half-way mark, the Preps have succeeded in establishing themselves as one of the best junior teams in this vicinity. The important games of the Warwick schedules have not yet been played, but, on its present form, many declare the club will sweep through opponents to annex the championship of the junior class. Pictured in the photograph are, left to right: Artie Goldberg, William Mulvey, Henri Sapping, Buddy Self, Charlie Vierbuchen.

BOUTS LOOM FOR "CARP" HERE

French Boxer Arrives; Praises Paolino as Best Heavy.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (By A. P.). Georges Carpentier, "Orchid Man" of France, arrived today on another pugilistic mission to the United States, but this time it is not entirely on his own account.

"Fight?" he repeated, "most assuredly, if the opportunity is good, but you should see this Paolino of Spain if you wish to see a fighter." Carpentier thus epitomized the main purpose of his visit. Now 32—he celebrated his birthday yesterday—and admittedly past his fistic prime, the "Gorgeous One" is not particularly anxious for a strenuous program on his own account, though he considers himself in good trim and "would like, monsieur, a shot at Paul Berlenbach or Young Stribling."

Carpentier is here chiefly as advance man for Paolino, who is due in New York in February with his manager, Francois Descamps, and other boxers in the Descamps stable. Carpentier will consider offers from Tex Rickard as well as promoters in Newark, N. J., and California for bouts during his stay here. Rickard has proposed Jack Delaney, Bridgeport, Conn., light heavyweight, as an opponent, but Georges confesses himself a bit shy of Delaney's right. He would prefer Berlenbach or Stribling. After two weeks here he will visit California, not with any bouts in view, but willing to listen to any reasonable offer to fight in the ring or before the movie camera.

Local Girl to Captain Fair-Sex Nine in East

The White Sox Bobbies, of Baltimore, a baseball team composed of girls, have signed Evelyn Lynch, a Washington girl, to captain the team. Manager Elmer Tyler has booked games in Paterson, York, Martinsburg, Hagerstown, Philadelphia, Chester, Alexandria and Washington. The Bobbies will start play about April 4.

ADAMS SOLD BY GRIFFITH TO YANKS

Second Baseman Goes to New York for Cash Consideration.

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 13.—The sale of Spencer Adams, Washington substitute second baseman, to the New York Yankees, was announced here tonight by Clark C. Griffith, president of the Washington club.

The deal, an outright sale, with no players involved, evidently the outgrowth of the transfer of Veatch and Ferguson by the Yankees to the Washington club late last season by the waiver route. Adams was used by Washington as an understudy to Bucky Harris and performed brilliantly whenever used.

New York, Jan. 13.—Miller Huggins, after a winter of ineffectual hickering and negotiating may have solved his second base problem today. It is reported tonight the mid-west manager of the Yanks has closed a deal with Clark Griffith, owner of the champion Washington Nats, which calls for the delivery of Bucky Harris' understudy, Spencer Adams, to the Yanks on the one hand, and for a few peels from Col. Ruppert's bankroll, on the other. Adams has two players to the Nationals, on the other.

THE Yankee offices here today would divulge no details of the transaction. No layman knows who the Yankee players involved in the deal are and one layman's guess is good as another. What the good colonel had to forswear in money for his new acquisition is also material for some future session of this season's poorly fed stove league.

That Adams will bring strength to the Yankees will be admitted anywhere; that he will be Huggins' regular keystone performer is something else again. While a great prospect, Adams is without any considerable experience in the big leagues and thus his ability under fire, day in and day out, is at least questionable.

His acquisition, though talked of from time to time comes rather as a surprise. It was thought that Huggins would not be content with anybody less than a big league star, like McManus of the Browns, whom he has been trying to coax away from George Sisler after winter-long. Now, however, it appears that Huggins will allow his case for a second baseman to rest with Adams and the costly recruit, Tony Lazzeri, from Salt Lake City.

D. C. BOOTERS TO REPLAY GAMES

Players Are Picked to Meet Invading Germans.

THE executive committee of the Washington Soccer league, at a meeting held in the District building last night, ruled that the game between Monroe and the German-American club, which was scheduled last Sunday and forfeited to the Germans by the referee, should be played off later in the season. It also was decided to replay the game won by Fort Myer over the German-American Reserves on the same day. It was agreed that the referee of this last mentioned game had erred in permitting play as it was impossible to see either the goal lines or outside boundaries.

All games scheduled for next Sunday have been postponed until later in the season as the fields are not expected to be in condition to play on. President Birch of the league took this opportunity, a day in the league schedule, to call a general meeting for Sunday at 3 o'clock at 714 Eleventh street northwest. All players are expected to be present at the meeting as several matters of importance will be discussed.

TWO teams and reserve eleven were picked from the league to play a match for the purpose of picking a representative eleven to meet the German team which comes to the United States early in March. The teams will line-up as follows:

Jones and Thompson, goal; R. Burton and Bakonyi, right backs; DeMott and Heller, left backs; Mills and Burton, right halves; G. Pauls and Reilly, center halves; P. Pauls and Mohrhardt, left halves; Malloch and Olando, outside rights; E. Clark and Lynn, inside rights; McLean and Brown, center forwards; Watts and Beyerlin, inside lefts; and Whitehead and Franco, outside lefts.

Mt. Vernon Juniors Defeat McLeans, 14-11

In a hard-fought game at the Y. M. C. A. last night, the Mount Vernon Juniors annexed a 14-to-11 win over the McLeans Juniors. Morris, center, for Mount Vernon, scored 7 points in giving his team the victory. The McLean team presented a clever player in Gartland, who pocketed four field goals.

McLean A. C. goal scorers: R. F. Morris (2), John (2), Good (3 in 3), Morris (3 in 3), John (2), Carpenter (1 in 2), Thayer (0 in 2), Gartland (0 in 2). Referee—Hague.

SCHOOL CAGE TEAMS ARE ACTIVE

Gonzaga Plays Today; Six More Contests This Week.

SCHOLASTIC basketball will bounce along at a merry clip during the next three days. District fives are scheduled to take part in seven games, five to be staged on local courts.

Gonzaga, led by Johnny Bozek, faces two of the hardest games on its schedule on successive days. Today the Purple tossers are due to engage the Georgetown Freshmen at the Hilltop, while tomorrow will find them faced with the task of avenging an earlier season defeat in the hands of Eastern. This game is booked for the George Washington University gymnasium, starting at 4 o'clock.

Coach Guyon's Eastern dribblers in addition to their engagement with Gonzaga tomorrow, make it three games in as many days today when they will be hosts to Catholic university's freshmen combination. Business and Central, due to provide half of the semi-weekly series doubleheader at the Arcade Saturday morning, will be in action on foreign courts tomorrow. Both teams will travel home on sleepers.

CENTRAL tossers with a much-needed two-day rest under their belts, will engage the West Philadelphia High five on the latter's floor. Coach Woodward will escort his Business High charges to Staunton, Va., where the Staunton Military academy team will be encountered.

While both Central and Business desire to score victories in tomorrow's games, their respective coaches will hardly use regulars to an extent that would lessen their chances in Saturday's series game. Tech will take the floor opposite Western in the second game Saturday morning. Each has two defeats to show for its action in the series and some lively stepping should be provided before one or the other registers its first victory.

Intercity Cue Match Starts Here Tonight

Balk-line "billiard" players of Washington and Baltimore will engage in a 1,200-point match in four blocks of 300. The first block will be played at the Lewis & Kraus parlor tonight, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Washington will be represented by Turton, Clark, Powell and Wolfe, while H. E. Crook, C. Crook, Hays and Farson will comprise the Baltimore group.

ROLAND MACKENZIE, Washington's youthful golfing star, who yesterday was named a member of the United States Walker Cup team.

THE new blood on the team, therefore, consists of Von Elm, Mackenzie and Gunn, who have taken the places of veteran golfers like "Chick" Evans and William C. Fowles, jr.

Roland Mackenzie's selection was anticipated, provided that the younger element in the game was recognized. Apart from his local record, which included the winning of the Middle Atlantic championship last year, his memorable battle to the thirty-seventh hole at Merion against Von Elm and the fact that he won the qualification medal at Oakmont last fall established his position in the golfing world.

Watts Gunn, whose golfing career has been one of meteoric brilliancy, was practically an unknown figure in national golf, although he had won some minor titles, until he crashed his way through the field at Oakmont last fall and finished the tournament as runner-up to his fellow-clubmate from Atlanta, Bobby Jones.

It is expected that the team will sail from New York the first week in May.

District Youth Will Go to England

Bobby Jones and Gunn Also on Team That Meets British.

Gardner Again Captain; Americans Defend Cup on June 2-3.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST. ROLAND R. MACKENZIE, Washington's young star golfer, has been named as a member of the American golf team which will endeavor to retain possession of the Walker cup when the international matches are played on the historic St. Andrew's course on the second and third of next June.

The complete personnel of the team is as follows: Robert A. Gardner, captain; Robert T. Jones, jr.; Francis Oulmet, George Von Elm, Jesse P. Gullford, Jess W. Sweetser, Roland R. Mackenzie, Watts Gunn.

These eight players will compose the team, but in the event that one or more are unable to make the trip, the following alternates have been selected in the order named: Max R. Marston, D. Clarke Corkran, George V. Rotan, H. Chandler Egan and Harrison R. Johnston.

As the American team has never been defeated and has always been under the captaincy of Bob Gardner, it was foregone conclusion that he would be retained in that position. Three matches have been played since the cup was first presented by a New York banker in 1920, two in this country and one in Great Britain, and Gardner, Jones, Oulmet and Sweetser have participated in all of them.

Gullford was a member of the team in the two matches played on American soil, the first on the National links at Southampton in 1922 and the second at Garden City in 1924. There was no contest last year.

THE new blood on the team, therefore, consists of Von Elm, Mackenzie and Gunn, who have taken the places of veteran golfers like "Chick" Evans and William C. Fowles, jr.

COLLYER'S HORSES KORBLY AS NEW ORLEANS' BEST

Corn Cracker Primed to Repeat

Horse Market Loaded to Guards With Bets on Roland Request.

"Teak Is the Dough Rae Me Kid" in Third Race.

By BERT E. COLLYER.

VERITAS VINCI or in the language of Sophie Glutz "stick to the truth when it pays." With that of my chest I'm going to yank the old picker out of the vat, KORBLY. Lest we forget it was yours truly who delivered this maverick one year ago. Well, old "KORBLY" is rarin' to run. Also for your edification he will have one of the worst of the breaks. Never mind who told me, you get the two mugs down and yell like thunder, or not any stronger if you don't get 10 to 1 for your commission. LUCKY in the present form is almost sure to rule the choice and logical contender while TEASE and PORTO DE ORO are right bang up. There was an overnight commission on the latter. Yes ho, this thing shure do talk—loudly.

POLAND REQUEST which was given a final pep in that six-furlong dash, is another stepper. The old horse market is loaded to the guards. MOON MAGIC, a rank in and out found some overnight support. Then we have YORICK and SIR RALPH. In this order I fancy them.

TEAK looks like an eagle bird. True, AILEEN P. is expected to show to better advantage over the drying out track, but TEAK is the dough rae me kid.

CYCLONS, possibly the best sprinter at the track is given the call in the fourth. This is a tough race fellows, and you should get 6 to 1 to name the winner. THUNDERING is another that has been in and out of the box. Tab the race action closely, is my best word.

For the closing dash I am stringing along with TUALIP. This way rigged he should just about take the head end and come home on the chin strap. The chief corksies BAD LUCK, while Adolph is taking DOUGHNUT. So there you have the "dope" and the answer to all this gab is in your white duke. More anon.

FRANK GATES

Listed, everybody—At odd odds I have for you today two of the BEST THINGS that I have had in a long, long time. Handicappers do not give either of my horses the slightest chance on form, and money has shown overnight in big bunches. You know what that means. MONEY TALKS. Both my horses are fit to make them. You can make them. And all angles have been taken care of. Honestly, I think today will be THE DAY. One of my horses goes in the second race, and, oh, what a price he will be. Take a look at the entries, well, he is the WINNER. You owe it to yourself to get Frank Gates' FIVE DOLLARS for today. You will be very proud to have them. Take WARNING. Please do not fall yourself today. I am over to WIN, and my wins both sell for only $3.00; sold only at $1.00.

GAS-MAIN EXTENSION LIKELY FOR SUBURBS

Utilities Commission Holds Hearing on Benning and Kenilworth Applications.

Following a hearing yesterday, indications were that the public utilities commission today will order the Washington Gas Light Co. to extend its mains to Benning and Kenilworth. William McK. Clayton argued for the extension.

Benjamin S. Minor, attorney for the company, said the work would be costly and mean increase in gas rates.

Clayton said the first consideration was service; that it should be supplied, and that if, after operation, it was found higher rates were necessary, the company could apply for an increase.

Two States Approve Plant at Conowingo

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 13 (By A. P.).—The Maryland public service commission today approved the $52,000,000 hydroelectric project at Conowingo, Md. A certified copy of the agreement with the Pennsylvania public service commission for development and control is being forwarded to the Federal water power commission in Washington.

The Pennsylvania commission's approval was announced from Harrisburg last night.

ROBERTSON NOW PROFESSOR

Commissioner of Patents Begins at National Law School.

Commissioner of Patents Thomas E. Robertson last night joined the ranks of Washington educators, when he began his lectures as professor of patent law at the National University Law school. Mr. Robertson is himself a graduate of the university, having received the degree of bachelor of laws in 1906.

Commissioner Robertson succeeds Prof. Samuel Fouts, formerly examiner-in-chief at the patent office, who resigned both positions recently to engage in the private practice of patent law in San Francisco, Calif.

MISDEMEANORS ONLY IN JUVENILE COURT, IS PLANNED IN BILLS

Measures Introduced in Congress After Agreement Is Reached on Mothers' Law.

NEW YORK WORKERS' PROPOSAL TRIUMPHS

Pensions Would Be Administered by Separate Body; Senate Hearing Asked.

The New York social workers having won in the initial stages on the mothers' pensions bill, another piece of local welfare legislation was started on its way in Congress yesterday.

Bills were introduced in both houses seeking to transform the juvenile court from criminal to a chancery court.

In the House District committee, the New York "city slickers" as they have come to be known, were successful in getting a favorable report on their plan providing for the administration of mothers' pensions here by a separate agency, instead of by the proposed Board of Public Welfare.

Local Bill Advocated.

In the House committee discussion of the mothers' pensions bill, Representatives Hammer, of North Carolina, and Gibson, of Vermont, argued strongly that local people should be permitted to have the kind of legislation they wanted and reserved the right to file a minority report to the House. Representative Blanton, of Texas, made known that he would file a minority report, but his disagreement with the bill lies in the fact that its benefits are applicable to both boys and girls up to 16 years of age. The age limit for boys, he thinks, should be restricted to 14 years, as beyond that age they are capable of working. Mr. Blanton also wants the bill to restrict the number of paid employees that can be engaged in the administration of the fund.

Reid Is Voted Down.

Representative Reid, of Illinois, sought to kill the subcommittee report on the measure in favor of the District plan but was voted down.

The subject came up for informal discussion at the meeting of the Senate District committee. Senator Copeland, of New York, who has it in charge, said that he has an open mind as to which plan should be adopted and that he wanted everybody to be heard. He did not indicate, however, whether he had changed his plan to hold no further public hearings.

Proprietor Held Up While Opening Store

Jacob Rosenbloom, proprietor of a grocery store at 5113 Georgia avenue northwest, was held up by two colored men yesterday morning while opening his store, according to police.

One of the men asked Rosenbloom for 50 cents. When the proprietor failed to accede to the demand, one held him while the other rifled his pockets. Finding no money, the two men fled across the street to a waiting automobile and disappeared.

Fowler to Prosecute More Barber Shops

Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer, yesterday applied for warrants for proprietors of 24 more barber shops on a charge of using insanitary implements.

This marks a continuation of the campaign he began last week against barbers who neglect to sterilize their tools.

EXECUTORS SEEK EVICTION.

Widow and Sons Charged Blocking Sale Under Terms of Will.

Mrs. Florence Newman, widow of Eugene W. Newman, and her two sons, who occupy the home at 4414 Fourteenth street northwest, were ordered by Chief Justice McCoy in probate court yesterday to appear January 22 to show cause why they should not surrender possession of the home to the American Security & Trust Co., executors under the Newman will.

The trust company, through Attorneys Peelle and Ogilby, states that it is directed in the will to sell the property, but, it is charged, Mrs. Newman and her sons have blocked one attempt to sell at an advantageous price.

RUDOLPH GOING SOUTH.

Commissioner Departs Tomorrow for Vacation in Miami.

President Cuno H. Rudolph, of the District board of commissioners, plans to depart from Washington tomorrow for a ten-day vacation in Florida.

He has been invited to be the guest of Samuel J. Prescott in his winter home near Miami.

Pedestrian Sues Transfer Company.

Charles Winkelman, pedestrian, who says he had the right of way at the unguarded crossing at Third street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, on October 28, when he charged a truck belonging to the Merchants Transfer & Storage Co., struck him, filed suit yesterday in circuit court against the company to recover $15,000 damages. Attorney J. William Tomlinson appeared for him.

Boy's Care of Mother Is Rewarded in Will

Charles Jenkins, of this city, who is temporarily residing in Detroit, who took a man's job on his shoulders at the age of 13, will now reap the reward for his thrift and affection for his mother, Mrs. Katherine Jenkins, according to her will filed yesterday in probate court.

In giving her son the property at 1316 Thirty-fourth street northwest, Mrs. Jenkins states that she had "taken into consideration that after the death of his father, while he was of a very tender age, namely, 13, he went to work and all the money he earned he gave me until he was 21 years of age, and that money, or the larger part of it, was saved by me and is represented in the house." The son also is given a diamond ring. The daughter, Bertha Taylor, is given $2,000 and the household effects.

SISTER NAMED LEGATEE IN JOHN SHUGHRUE WILL

Nephews and Niece Remembered; Mrs. Ella D. Sherman Left $25,000.

MERKLING ESTATE $20,000

John Shughrue, veteran banker, who died January 9, named his sister, Mrs. Margaret S. Nolan, as residuary legatee in the will filed yesterday in probate court. Mrs. Nolan is given the premises at 903 M street northwest, fifteen shares of stock of the National Bank of Washington and $5,000 in cash.

The nephews, James, John, Henry and William Nolan, and a niece, Bernadette N. Callahan, are each given ten shares of stock of the American Security & Trust Co. The sum of $2,000 each is given to William and Michael M. Shughrue, and to Margaret S. Lehmyer, Harry Shughrue and Charles Shughrue. The house at 1214 Ninth street and its equipment and the garage property in the rear of 1216 Ninth street and its contents are given to the nephew, William J. Nolan. The trustees of St. Joseph's orphan asylum are given $500. The American Security & Trust Co. and Judge William H. DeLacy are named executors. The surviving children of Jennie S. Catts, niece of the testator, are given $2,000 each. Francis S. Merklung, who died January 2, left an estate valued at about $20,000, according to the petition for letters testamentary filed by his son, Philip Merklung. The estate includes the premises at 2732 Woodley place northwest. The deceased was also survived by a wife, Mrs. Helena S. Merklung, and a son, Frank, and two daughters, Katherine and Madeline.

Mrs. Ella D. Sherman, who died January 6, left an estate valued at more than $25,000, according to the petition for letters testamentary filed by her son-in-law, Eugene Van Voorhis. The testatrix was survived by her daughter, Allis and Bella, and a son, John.

Waste Conference To Open Here Today

A National Public Works conference will be held at the Mayflower hotel today to devise a plan for the reorganization of the Department of the Interior in which the public works functions of the government would be coordinated to avoid waste. More than 50 organizations will be represented at the conference held under the auspices of the American Engineering council.

Plans for an organized attack on the problems of industry and agriculture, aiming to wipe out billions in waste and to forestall possible dwindling labor supplies and crippled production, have also been drafted for the council. According to announcement from local headquarters of the engineering council, 26 Jackson place, five years would be required to carry out the program.

Wood Heads G. O. P. Congressional Group

Representative Will R. Wood, of Indiana, last night was elected chairman of the national Republican congressional committee for the Sixty-ninth Congress at a meeting of the committee at its headquarters in the Albee building.

Other officers elected were Representative John Q. Tilan, of Connecticut, first vice chairman; Representative Addison T. Smith, of Idaho, second vice chairman; Representative Harry M. Wurzbach, of Texas, third vice chairman; Representative Edward H. Wason, of New Hampshire, secretary; Earl Venable, of Idaho, executive secretary, and Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National Bank, treasurer.

Siddons to Discuss Juvenile Court Bill

Justice Frederick L. Siddons, of the District Supreme Court, will discuss the District juvenile court bill at a special meeting of the Monday evening club January 18 at the Grace Dodge hotel. Justice Siddons is chairman of the commission on public welfare legislation, and will tell of the present shortcomings of the court as it now stands.

Miss Katherine Lenroot, assistant to the chief of the United States children's bureau, will discuss juvenile courts of other cities and their administrative capacity.

Man Dies in Hospital Soon After Collapse

Roucel Gingell, 48 years old, a blacksmith, 1304 I street northeast, died in Casualty hospital last night as the result of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Gingell was taken to the hospital by an unidentified motorist last evening. He fell unconscious in a shop while working in a blacksmith shop in Bladensburg, Md. He never regained consciousness.

As a result of the discovery, hazards of travel at sea and the danger of collision have been done away with.

Such streets as this still exist in Washington. This photo was taken at Sixteenth and B streets northeast. Northeast organizations are endeavoring to get local authorities to make improvements in their section.

George O'Connor, local singer of comic songs, who will be one of the principal entertainers for the ball of the Washington council of the Knights of Columbus in the Mayflower hotel Monday night.

Diminutive Autoist, Fined, Goes to Jail

Although he was accompanied by his brother, who had a permit, Gonza Cole, a diminutive colored youth, who said he was 18 years old, was fined $50 for driving without a permit by Judge John P. McMahon in traffic court last night. Failing to pay the fine, the youth was sent to jail for fifteen days.

Almost immediately after, a colored taxi driver was tried. According to the testimony of Policemen J. L. Bennett, he was driving so fast that he could not stop at a street intersection in time to avoid a collision with a bicycle, and after the collision skidded completely around, finally stopping with his front wheels on the curb. The case was dismissed.

WAN JURY IS EXPECTED TO BE COMPLETED TODAY

Prosecution and Defense Are Near the End of Their Challenge Quotas.

60 TALESMEN EXCUSED

The third day of the trial of Ziang Sun Wan on a charge of murder ended without a jury having been selected. Both the prosecution and the defense, however, are confident that a jury will be organized this morning.

Of the 100 talesmen that Justice Wendell P. Stafford had ordered rounded up Tuesday, less than 60 were on hand when court convened yesterday morning. About 21 of these were found to be ineligible for jury service. The remainder were excused because of their opposition to capital punishment and circumstantial evidence, or on challenges by the prosecution or defense.

Both the prosecution and the defense are entitled to 20 preemptory challenges each. The prosecution has exhausted 16 of its quota, and the defense 17.

When court convenes this morning, an effort will be made to complete a jury from among jurors call from another branch of the District supreme court.

Spanish Village Raid Denounced by Blease

Senator Cole Blease, of South Carolina, yesterday assailed the police raid Saturday night on the Spanish Village. Asserting that diplomatic attaches were allowed to go free and "fair young American womanhood" taken into custody, the senator wanted to know if this discrimination was to be permitted. He has a measure pending making the prohibition laws applicable to diplomatic officials.

COMMUNITY CHEST DEBATED BY LIONS

John Ihlder Advocates and William Knowles Cooper Opposes Proposal.

A debate on the advisability of creating a community chest for Washington was held at a luncheon meeting of the Lions club yesterday at the Mayflower hotel.

John Ihlder, of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, upheld the affirmative side and William Knowles Cooper, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., the negative. Mr. Cooper stated that he was acting as an individual and not as a representative of the association as the Y. M. C. A. has not yet taken a stand on the question. The many different kinds of citizens that make up Washington's population bar the unity that would be necessary for the success of a community chest, according to Mr. Cooper.

Mr. Ihlder denied that Washington was a hopeless city as far as unity of service went and argued for a community chest to lessen appeals, increase contributions and to present the general needs of the city.

SCULPTOR'S CLAIM DENIED.

Geneva Dunham Says She Made No Contract With Clarke Noble.

Geneva Dunham, who was sued by W. Clarke Noble, a sculptor, for $1,900, which he claimed as the balance due under an alleged agreement to pay him $2,500 to make a portrait bust of her, denied yesterday in a new suit filed in circuit court that she owed Noble anything.

Through Attorneys Covington, Burling & Rublee, the defendant says that no agreement was made with Noble and that the $800 which she paid him was more than the work of making a rough model from memory was worth.

WIDOW GETS $900 IN DEATH.

Mrs. Mary L. Ray Wins Suit from Railroad Administration.

Mrs. Mary L. Ray, widow of Bernard D. Ray, and administratrix of his estate, was awarded a verdict for $900 damages yesterday by a jury in circuit court against the director general of railroads, for the death of her husband. According to the declaration filed by Attorneys Lambert & Yeatman, Ray was struck by a Baltimore & Ohio train at Halpine, Md., on October 16, 1919.

Crash Victim Sues Street Railway.

Albert E. Ryon filed suit yesterday in circuit court against the Capital Traction Co. and the Carry Ice Cream Co. to recover $10,000 damages for alleged personal injuries. Through Attorneys Newmyer & King, the plaintiff says that on June 7 last a street car collided with an ice cream truck on which he was riding at New Jersey avenue and P street northwest.

MACGREGOR OFFERS MEASURE TO PERMIT BOXING IN DISTRICT

New York Representative Proposes Commission to Govern Sport.

TRIAL OF 16 ARRESTED IN CLUB RAID DEFERRED

Counsel Announces He Will Contend Fight Program Held Legally.

Representative MacGregor, of New York, yesterday introduced a bill in the House legalizing boxing in the District, following the postponement to next Wednesday of the trials of the 16 men arrested Tuesday night in a raid on the National Capital Sporting club's boxing show at the Arcade.

Ralph Given, assistant District attorney for the District, and James A. O'Shea, counsel for Frank Dane, promoter of the show, and for the 15 others arrested, agreed on the postponement when O'Shea served notice before Judge Gus A. Schuldt that he would contend that his clients were conducting the fight according to the law which permits pugilistic shows in recognized clubs.

In order to obtain a conviction the District will have to prove that admissions were paid by nonmembers of the club and that the pugilists were not employed for a fixed sum.

Law Called "Relic."

Under the bill introduced by Representative MacGregor, a boxing commission of three residents would be set up to supervise the sport. They would serve for two years without remuneration.

The present restriction against boxing here is "ridiculous" and a "relic of an ignorant and intolerant age," he said. "Boxing appeals to the many instincts of every worthwhile American."

"If there is one thing needed in America more than anything else," he declared, "it is the putting of backbones into the American youth. We have enough of the namby-pamby. We want men who dare to stand up; who will face the battle of life alone and unafraid; we want men who dare to say no; men who are alive with red blood and equipped to stand up for their rights; we want real men, not effeminate, pink tea creatures. We want a real country of robust, healthy, life-pulsating individuals."

Boxing is one of the sports that instills the idea of physical perfection in the youth. It is ridiculous that any sane community, much less the Capital of the nation, should preserve a relic of the dark ages upon the statute books."

Aloysius' Plans Indefinite.

A decision as to whether or not the Aloysius club will hold its regular smoker featured by boxing bouts Tuesday night, will be decided at a special meeting of the club members tonight.

It is understood that officers of the club will confer with police officials today in respect to the legality of the fights featured at the smokers. Edward Shoemaker, a member of the club, last night stated that it looked as if everything was off for awhile, although if the word were any possible chance, the bouts would be held.

Joe Downey, of Washington, and Nick Bass, of Baltimore, are scheduled to meet in the feature bout.

Rotarians to Debate On Community Chest

Debate of the community chest proposal will be held at a special meeting of the Rotary club in the Willard hotel next Wednesday night. William Radcliffe, president, announced yesterday.

George Harris, of the educational committee, made a brief talk at the luncheon meeting yesterday, in which he told of the growth of the organization since 1901 and the present in hope of its work. He urged more personal business talks at the luncheon meetings of the club. Entertainment was furnished by Miss Dorothy Torchiana and Bert Levy.

Ability of Expression Urged on High Pupils

Development of power of expression was urged on pupils of Western High school by Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of George Washington university, in an address in the new Western school auditorium yesterday.

"To be able to express one's thoughts clearly and precisely is one of the greatest assets a business or professional man can have," Dr. Lewis declared. The meeting was the first formal one held in the auditorium. Dr. Elmer S. Newton, principal of the school, presided.

Damage Suit Losers Denied Trial.

Justice Hitz in circuit court yesterday denied the motion of the A. Loeffler Provision Co. for a new trial of the damage suit wherein the company was assessed $7,000 the company was assessed for personal injuries. Caldwell charged that an automobile in which he was riding in the Capitol grounds was collided with on July 12, 1924, by an automobile belonging to the Loeffler concern.

Ersler Named Receiver.

Philip Ersler, an attorney, was appointed as receiver yesterday by Chief Justice McCoy in equity court for the Ray Fuel Oil Burner Co., Inc., of the District of Columbia. His bond was fixed at $50,000. According to the petition of creditors, the concern owes $63,000. Charles F. Miller is president of the concern. Attorneys Wright, Ersler & Smith appeared for the creditors.
